Sterling Indicates He Would Veto 'No Cotton' Bill

STATEMENT MADE AS TEXANS VEER TO ACREAGE CUT

House's Refusal To Instruct Committee To Report Back Both Plans Regarded as Test Vote Against Long Proposal.

OLSEN MEASURE BELIEVED FAVORED

Bill Would Restrict Planting to One-Third of Land; House Adjourns Until Monday.

GOV. RUSSELL DENIES STAND ON LONG PLAN

Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. denied Friday night that he had given Governor Sterling, of Texas, an expression of his views on the merits or demerits of the Long "no-cotton" proposal. The Texas chief executive was quoted as having said that he had "conferred, directly or indirectly, with the governors of all cotton states and had found only one for the Long plan."

"I have not been approached by Governor Sterling for an expression of my views on the Long plan," Governor Russell stated, "and have made no statement regarding the plan, either for or against it."

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

A cotton acreage reduction bill, modeled along lines Governor Ross S. Sterling, of Texas, said he favored, Friday bore the approval of a committee of the lower house of the Texas legislature.

Governor Sterling Friday night placed himself directly in opposition to the Huey Long plan of prohibiting cotton planting in 1932, but declared he favored cotton acreage reduction legislation.

Shortly after the governor's statement, A. P. Johnson, chairman of the house committee considering cotton bills, announced that the body had finished work on a measure he was confident the governor would approve if passed by the legislature. It would restrict cotton acreage in 1932 to one-third the cultivated area in 1931, and prohibit planting acreage to cotton in successive years.

The Texas chief executive was quoted as saying he had conferred, directly or indirectly, Friday, with governors of all cotton growing states and found only one for the Long plan. He did not name the governor who favored it.

Parnell Asks Prohibition.

Governor Harvey Parnell, of Arkansas, in a telegram to Governor Sterling Friday night, pleaded for early enactment of the Long cotton holiday plan by the Texas legislature, and assured him the Arkansas legislature would pass a similar law immediately after its passage by the Texas assembly.

In Columbia, S. C., Governor Ibra C. Blackwood, also an advocate of the Long plan, said Texas can save the cotton situation by "completely prohibiting cotton planting in 1932. If Texas will enact a law completely prohibiting cotton planting in 1932, the other cotton states, or practically all of them, in my opinion, will follow."

While governors were issuing their statements and the committee acted on the acreage reduction bill, a group of farmers in Little Rock, Ark., offered a reward of $100 for information leading to the arrest and convic-

Threat Halts Picking Of Cotton in Arkansas

GARLAND CITY, Ark., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Cotton picking in this district was halted today as the result of two unidentified men warning negro pickers that cotton would be burned before it reached the gins.

Officers learned that the men had ridden through the district and spread the warning over a wide area, frightening the negroes.

Farmers were having considerable difficulty inducing the pickers to return to their work, despite the assurance of full protection.

G. O. P. LEADERS SHARPLY DIVIDED OVER TAX ISSUE

Senator Watson, at Hoover's Doorstep, Flays Plan as "Mistake"; President Silent.

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Administration republicans broke sharply today over tax revision as Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader, voiced outspoken opposition at the White House to new or higher rates.

Meanwhile, democratic opposition also roared forth against the movement for revision.

On the White House steps Senator Watson pronounced the proposals for new and higher taxes at this time a "mistake."

Through the democratic national committee, Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, the ranking democrat on the finance committee, tonight asserted "of all times this is the worst for men in high places to talk about increasing burdens upon the American public."

President Hoover was silent meanwhile on the recommendations of Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, for a sales tax, and upon the plan of Representative Bacharach, of New Jersey, for higher rates on incomes over $100,000.

With determined opposition against tax revision next session already apparent in both the republican and democratic ranks, the prospects for such legislation were admittedly dimmed.

Senator Reed agreed that if congress put "its foot down" on further farm board and bonus appropriations and kept "strict economy" the necessity for tax revision might not be so great despite the billion dollar deficit which is in sight.

"The federal finances," asserted Senator Harrison, "are not in any strained condition. We have a deficit, 'tis true, resulting from the narrow and selfish policies of the Hoover administration, which have slowed down business and deprived the government of reasonable revenues.

"But it must not be forgotten that for the last 10 years, under the leadership of Mr. Mellon, as secretary of the treasury, from 250 to 750 millions of dollars annually were collected by the government in taxes in excess of governmental requirements. These excess collections built up large surpluses at the expense of the taxpayers. They went toward the payment of the national debt and today we are more than five years ahead of the scheduled time in which the government believed the national debt should be retired.

"If in flush times we exacted from the American taxpayer these large surpluses and our debt retirement program is sound, then why not give the American taxpayer a rest in these exceptional and hard times from increased tax exactions when they are unable to meet them?"

Crash of School Bus Kills One, Hurts 34

OFFICIALS CONFER ON MARTIAL RULE IN CHURCH DISPUTE

Armed Forces on Alert for Further Disorders in Arkansas Town While Parnell Debates Appeal.

JONESBORO, Ark., Sept. 11.—(AP)—While more than 100 national guardsmen patrolled the streets of this northeast Arkansas city tonight, state military officials and local authorities conferred as to whether martial law must be declared to avert bloodshed in a Baptist church congregation fight that has assumed menacing proportions.

Despite his refusal to declare martial law "unless conditions get beyond control," Governor Harvey Parnell sent two representatives here today to look over a situation local authorities declared should be placed under military control.

Mayor H. J. Bosler and the city council yesterday asked the governor to declare martial law and today Captain Harry Eldridge, in charge of guardsmen mobilized to assist civil authorities in maintaining order, renewed the request, asserting that "present measures are not adequate for the protection of the people."

Governor Parnell sent his secretary, Guy Freeling, as his representative, and Lieutenant Colonel C. S. Garrett, assistant adjutant general, to talk over the situation with local authorities here and report back to him.

Captain Eldridge, who today recommended that martial law be put in force, said he would renew his recommendation as he entered a conference room with Colonel Garrett and Mayor Bosler. Mr. Freeling did not attend the conference, but said a perfunctory survey of conditions did not indicate the necessity of martial law.

In a statement today, Captain Eldridge said he feared possible outbreaks between factions headed by Evangelist Joe Jeffers, who seeks to oust the Rev. Dow H. Heard from the pastorate of the First Baptist church, and followers of Mr. Heard.

At a revival meeting conducted by Jeffers last night, while guardsmen with fixed bayonets stood outside the big tent where a crowd of 5,000 or more persons came to hear the evangelist, Captain Eldridge said he saw "between 15 and 20 men carrying shotguns and had reports from my men many others were armed."

Warned By Eldridge.

Captain Eldridge warned Jeffers today that at tonight's meeting he must refrain from his personal attacks on Jonesboro citizens which the captain said have caused considerable ill feeling.

Jeffers last night attacked the character of Heard, accusing the latter of misconduct while he was pastor of a church at Big Spring, Texas.

"I get my sermons from God and not from the governor or any one else," said Jeffers in reply to an admonition from Captain Eldridge to refrain from indulging in personalities in his revival tent meetings. "If we are to have marital law, it is God's will and I bow to it.

"Everything is working out to suit me, and regardless of what happens, it will not alter my course to give the truth."

Jeffers denied charges by mmebers of the church congregation that he

Heflin Is Denied Use Of Fresno Auditorium

FRESNO, Cal., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Thomas Heflin, former United States senator from Alabama, today was denied the use of the Fresno auditorium for a speech September 22, on the ground his talk would "stir up religious strife and hatred."

The action was taken by the city commission after a delegation of Catholic and Protestant laymen had protested.

Private Corporation Proposed To Dispose of Farm Board Cotton

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Formation of a private corporation to take over and dispose of the cotton held by the farm board was suggested today in a plan made public by Senator Hastings, republican, Delaware.

The proposal was made by H. O. Schundler, of New York. The Delaware senator said Schundler had the support of important financial interests, which would furnish $50,000,000 in working capital for the concern.

Hastings said he did not "specially indorse the plan" but believed it deserved serious consideration.

Under the Schundler plan, the "Cotton Factors' Corporation" would receive the cotton controlled by the board, estimated by him at 2,000,000 bales, in return for $50,000,000. The funds would act as security for the cotton, pending its sale at the rate of 2,000 bales a day.

The quantity would not be increased until the price reached 12 cents a pound and then the amount sold each day would be increased to 4,000 bales.

"It is not proposed that this company shall in any way meddle with the cotton business outside of this one transaction," Senator Hastings said.

"The money received for these daily sales," he said, "would be placed to the credit of the farm board or its subsidiaries. If the average reached for this period was but five cents a pound, plus the interest agreed upon, it would all go to the new corporation, but if it averaged six cents, seven cents or anything up to ten cents, all over and above the five cents a pound would go to the farm board or its subsidiaries. When the average price reached ten cents, the next one-half cent a pound goes to the corporation as its compensation. Anything in excess of 10 1-2 cents goes to the farm board or its subsidiaries."

Murder Theory Strengthened In Probe of Yacht Piracy

Mrs. Benjamin Collings (right) was subjected to long questioning by officials at Mineola, N. Y., on September 11 in the disappearance of her husband, a wealthy Stamford, Conn., resident, from a yacht. With Mrs. Collings in the above telephoto is her sister-in-law, Miss Helen P. Collings. Mrs. Collings said two men boarded the yacht, tied and threw her husband overboard, and then attacked her as they carried her in a canoe from the yacht to a motorboat in Oyster bay. She was left marooned on the motorboat. The attack, she said, took place on the night of September 9. Associated Press telephoto.

BY ROBERT ST. JOHN.

MINEOLA, N. Y., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Minute study of clues, hours of patient questioning and painful reenactment of a tragic scene on board the yacht Penguin failed to bring a solution today of the Long Island pirate mystery in which Benjamin P. Collins, wealthy Stamford (Conn.) man, is missing.

District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards, of Nassau county, said that "fantastic as it seems" he believes Mrs. Lillian Collings' story.

Late in the day Edwards issued a lengthy statement outlining again the story Mrs. Collings had told.

"I am inclined to believe that a murder was committed," he said.

His statement said the four blankets the two men gave Mrs. Collings when they left her in a moored motorboat were "our most important clue. We are trying to trace their ownership now."

Mrs. Collings, accompanied by her father-in-law, Dr. H. P. Collings, and sister-in-law, Miss Helen P. Collings, left for Stamford, Conn., with the Stamford police chief. Edwards said they would return tomorrow.

Dr. Collings was indignant at the long questioning of his daughter-in-law. "They are trying to find some-

POSTOFFICE WORK CONTRACT SIGNED

Washington Firm To Do Foundation and Tunneling for $249,000.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Treasury department officials today announced the signing of a contract with the National Construction Co., Washington, for the preliminary foundation and tunneling work of the new Atlanta federal building, which will be located on property already acquired across the street from the Terminal station.

The Washington construction firm's bid of $249,000 was the lowest of a number submitted some weeks ago, but was only $600 lower than that presented by the Barge-Thompson Co., of Atlanta.

Under treasury regulations and terms specified in the contract the firm is given a certain time in which to start and complete its work. Treasury officials have stated already that they will not await the completion of the foundation work to issue a call for bids on the main structure. Specifications for the building, which will represent a cost of approximately $2,500,000, are now in the course of preparation and it is hoped to have the main contract let by the time the initial work is finished.

SUIT OPENS FIGHT ON OIL SHUTDOWN

Refining Concern Seeking Injunction To Halt Military Rule in Texas.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Threats to enlist the aid of the federal courts in efforts to overthrow the military shutdown of oil fields came to a head today at the same time, officials of midcontinent states sought means of obtaining nationwide curtailment of production and imports to lift crude oil prices.

The Champlin Refining Company, of Enid, Okla., filed suit in the federal court at Guthrie, Okla., asking an injunction against Governor W. H. Murray and the state corporation commission to restrain the shutdown of flush oil wells in Oklahoma.

The suit alleged that Murray had acted without authority in closing the wells under martial law, that the shutdown program was "a price-fixing arrangement," placing an unlawful burden in oil destined for interstate commerce, and that representatives of the major purchasers promulgated the state proration orders "in the guise of an unselfish service to the public."

Federal Judges Cotteral, Phillips and Kennamer were asked to pass on

EXPERT IS QUIZZED ON METHODS USED IN GAS APPRAISAL

Commission, Company Specialists Cross-Examine City Appraiser in Second Day of Hearing.

Different methods of appraising the property of the Atlanta Gas Light Company to determine what rates it should be permitted to charge were disclosed before the Georgia public service commission Friday as four experts either testified or participated in the cross-examination of those on the witness stand.

Professor H. E. Riggs, representing the commission, and who valued the property, and C. S. Reed, valuation expert for the company, turned an attack both on the competency of Frank Batt, gas engineer employed by the city, and on the valuation theories used and advocated by Dr. John J. Bauer, who directed Batt's work in Atlanta and collaborated in preparing the third appraisal made in connection for an increase in rates.

Batt told the commission, under cross-examination of Professor Riggs, that he had based his appraisal of the property at $3,601,088 less than that found by Riggs, $10,261,819, on reproduction of the plant today less depreciation sustained since the present plant was built. He maintained that the present plant in Atlanta is overdeveloped for normal demands and natural increases in consumption.

Manner of Appraisal.

As for the mains, the major item involved, Batt said his reproduction figures represented present material costs, the use of modern machinery and hand labor at present prices together with the trench digging under conditions obtained when the plant was first constructed. He did not agree that paving and sewerage installations would make any great difference in laying mains now as compared with placing them when the present plant was constructed for artificial gas.

"Isn't it true, then," Professor Riggs asked Batt, "that you haven't given consideration to reproducing the identical plant?"

"We have made no appraisal of the identical plant," Batt said.

Chairman James A. Perry, of the commission, then asked the gas expert:

"Is it correct that the reason for the difference in your valuation and those of Professor Riggs are due to the fact that you valued one thing and he valued another?"

"It looks that way to me," Batt answered.

"Then why shouldn't the Atlanta Gas Light Company ask for rates based on the existing plant it operates?"

Batt said he knew of no reason why the company should not so base its application.

Cites Other Cases.

"Do you know," Perry continued, "of any other property that has ever been appraised as you have appraised this property?"

Batt said he did not but Dr. Bauer, when brought back to the stand under direct examination of James L. Mayson, city attorney, said that he knew of a number of appraisals which had been made as the Atlanta appraisal.

"Our theory," Bauer said, "is to determine the net present value of the property and our method requires finding the setting up cost new with reductions based on depreciation and obsolescence of units."

Club Murder Seen In Arkansan's Death

RAVENDEN, Ark., Sept. 11.—(UP)—Finding of a heavy, blood-stained club with hair on it led special agents investigating the death of Cecil Ellison to believe that he was murdered.

The club was found in an alley in the downtown section and officers believe young Ellison's body was placed along the Frisco railroad track to divert suspicion. Investigators are seeking to trace Ellison's activities prior to his death.

Waning Romance Seen Back of Dual Tragedy

MONROE, La., Sept. 11.—(UP)—A romance that waned into indifference was blamed today for the shooting of Miss Frances Griffin, West Monroe school teacher, by her sweetheart, Willis Mangham, 24, who afterwards took his own life.

The shooting occurred last night on the porch of the girl's home. The couple had returned from a missionary society meeting and Miss Griffin went inside the house to answer a long-distance telephone call from another man, whom the family refused to name. When she returned to the porch, where she left Mangham, she was shot in the breast with a pistol. Mangham then shot himself.

7,500,000 BUSHELS OF FEDERAL WHEAT SOLD TO GERMANY

Farm Board Further Lightens Surplus of Grain in Transaction Backed by Government.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The farm board today completed its third grain deal with foreign countries since July 1 by selling German interests 7,500,000 bushels of wheat.

The sale was to the Deutsche Getreide Handelsgesellschaft, which corresponds to the board's grain stabilization corporation, but the German government guaranteed payment for the grain.

Ambassador Von Prittwitz, of Germany; Dr. Axel Schindler and other representatives of German agricultural interests worked out the details of the deal today with members of the board.

Headed by the ambassador and Chairman Stone, the members and the Germans marched somewhat solemnly into the board room. The door was shut and agreement reached in little more than the time required to put the signatures on paper.

49 1-2 Cents a Bushel.

Current market quotations on September 10, fixed at 49 1-2 cents a bushel, will be paid for the grain, though some variation is allowed for its quality, variety and location.

It is to be No. 2 amber durum, No. 1 dark hard winter or No. 1 hard winter wheat of the 1930 crop and notes given for it bearing 4 1-2 per cent interest come due on December 31, 1934.

Delivery will be made at an average rate of 833,333 bushels per month, but the grain may be shipped more rapidly if Germany desires.

Preference is to be given American ships in hauling at least half the wheat. The provision was a reminder of complaints by United States shipping lines after they learned that Brazil was given authority to select carriers for the wheat and coffee involved in the barter with that country.

The announcement today was the first by the board on the German deal, although there had been several reports from Berlin that conclusion of the negotiations was expected soon.

In Chicago.

Much of the actual bargaining was between the Germans and officials of the grain stabilization corporation with headquarters in Chicago. It acted for the board in its stabilization operations which attempted to maintain profitable prices of the grain for the farmer.

The board statement said announcement of the sale was made by the grain stabilization corporation.

The German sale brought board wheat sold to foreign countries since July 1 to 47,500,000 bushels.

This includes 25,000,000 bushels exchanged with the Brazilian government for 1,050,000 bags of coffee and 15,000,000 bushels sold outright to China.

There has been no official statement of the amount still held by the board, although it has been estimated at only a little below 200,000,000 bushels.

In addition to the sales to foreign governments, the board has sold about 50,000,000 bushels to private interests since July 1. It is continuing these sales at the rate of 5,000,000 bushels monthly.

Chairman Stone said the board has other wheat deals in view but he would not say what they were.

Devastation of Honduran Town Is Described by Air Mail Pilot

The following dispatch, written by E. S. Rodenbaugh, chief pilot of a Pan-American mail plane en route to San Salvador from Miami, and sent by wireless while in flight over Belize, is the first eye-witness account of the death and destruction wrought by the hurricane which swept Honduras.

BELIZE, British Honduras, Sept. 11.—(Pan-American Plane Flying Over City, via Wireless to Pan-American Airways, New York, and The Associated Press.)—The hurricane has wrought untold havoc in the city of Belize. Not a building is undamaged, and the entire town is washed out.

The houses of this once tranquil town are piled up like so many toys. One area, in the heart of the city, about six blocks square, is entirely wiped out.

Ships and barges, battered and hammered by the hurricane, are swept high on dry land. Houses have been washed out to the sea, and can be seen bobbing about in the water, nearly submerged.

The Belize river has overflown its banks, and its turgid yellow waters inundate part of the region. The river itself is so full of debris that the natives have difficulty navigating it in their dugouts.

Our hangar (for planes of the Pan-American Airways) is a place of refuge for about 40 or 50 persons. None other of our buildings remain standing.

BELIZE, British Honduras, Sept. 11.—(AP)—A hurricane which struck Belize with devastating results yesterday killed at least 400 peresons. Bodies still were being unearthed from the debris late today.

No house in the city was undamaged. The hurricane started about 2:30 p. m. and lasted until 5:30 p. m., with a calm period of about half an hour.

Wireless communication was broken, and this message was sent out through the courtesy of the Pan-American Airways radio.

All churches in the city were demolished. St. John's College was destroyed and eight American Roman Catholic priests were killed. Eighteen boys also lost their lives in the college building.

The government has organized special police to guard against the looting of stores and to conserve the food supply.

A tidal wave hit the city after the lull in the hurricane, and most of those killed lost their lives by drowning.

The loss to American companies is roughly estimated at $250,000. Estimates placed the total damage well over $2,000,000.

Drugs were ruined by rain and waves, and physicians are working under very difficult conditions.

French Foreign Minister Says Progress Made Toward Permanent Peace.

BY WADE WERNER.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Aristide Briand, veteran foreign minister of France, assured the assembly of the League of Nations today that the international situation is not nearly so black as it looks.

Progress toward permanent peace has been made, he said, and as soon as the question of security has been settled the way will have been cleared for a large reduction of armaments.

But security, the lack of which is "like a blot on the covenant," must be provided, the French "man of peace" added.

Establishment of this security, the giving of guarantees which will make war impossible, he said, is the great responsibility on participants in the disarmament conference next February.

World disarmament never can be realized as long as the United States and Russia remain aloof from "international guarantees of security." Salvador De Madariaga, Spanish ambassador to the United States, told the assembly.

Neutrality in time of war no longer is possible, he said, and every nation, non-members of the league as well as members, shares in the lot of all other countries, in peace or in war.

Rumors that France would welcome postponement of the disarmament conference were false, M. Briand declared.

LeBrix, Long Beset by Air 'Jinx,' Seeking Distance Flight Record

PARIS, Sept. 11.—(UP)—Joseph LeBrix, determined to overcome the "hard luck jinx" which has balked his most daring air ventures in recent years, sped over Europe toward Siberia and Tokyo tonight in an effort to return the world distance record to France.

LeBrix's powerful plane, Hyphen II, was believed to have a fair chance of reaching its destination some 6,000 miles away, but the second team in the long air race was forced to land at Dusseldorf. The landing temporarily ended the hopes of Paul Codos, former flying companion of Dieudonne Costes, and Raoul Robida, pilot-mechanic of the Air Union Commercial Lines, of setting a record.

The Hyphen II, which also carried Marcel Doret and Rene Mesmin, was following a route which carried it over Brussels at 7:50 a. m., on schedule, and on to Koenigsberg, Moscow, Tomsk, Irkutsk, Chita and Mukden before making the last dash to Tokyo. LeBrix planned to fly high to take advantage of favorable winds, and Le Bourget officials said the big plane probably would not be sighted often.

Flying along the Trans-Siberian railroad over the desolate Siberian region, LeBrix will face the most difficult part of the journey. It was in Siberia that he and Doret were forced down and narrowly escaped serious injuries on their last effort to fly to Tokyo without a stop.

Temperature Friday ..... 85 degrees.
Temperature one year ago .. 80 degrees.

Cloudy weather, brought on by unsettled conditions in the Gulf of Mexico and the fact that Atlanta is in the southwestern quadrant of a high pressure area, today will break up the succession of fair, rainless days, C. F. von Herrmann, United States meteorologist, predicted Friday.

Mr. von Herrmann expects light showers to fall here today. Temperatures will not show much change, he said. The West Indian hurricane does not show on Atlanta's weather map yet, and it will be several days before anything develops from the storm to affect Atlanta's weather, if the storm heads in this general direction, the weather man said.

LEADERS MINIMIZE JOBLESS DISTRESS

Federal Officials See No Cause for "Public Alarm" in Crisis.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Federal officials in close touch with the unemployment situation believe that while the problem of preventing distress next winter is serious it presents no occasion for public alarm.

They are shaping their relief plans on the premise that the number of persons who will need aid during the cold months is considerably less than the total of jobless.

Administration leaders feel that there may be more families in need of assistance next winter than last, but are confident they can be cared for adequately and that no one will starve.

Nearing completion of his organization, Walter S. Gifford, national relief director, today appointed eight more state representatives, making a total of 32 that have been selected. Those announced today were:

Arkansas, Harvey Couch, Pine Bluff; Minnesota, James F. Bell, Minneapolis; New Jersey, E. D. Duffield, Newark; Oklahoma, Harry H. Rogers, Tulsa; Rhode Island, Thomas H. West Jr., Providence; Utah, Harold Fabian, Salt Lake City; West Virginia, Reese Blizzard, Parkersburg; Wyoming, George E. Brimmer, Cheyenne.

Gifford also announced that Merle Thorpe, Washington magazine editor, had been appointed as his assistant to keep in touch with the state representatives.

Official views on the distress problem were emphasized to counteract what relief leaders consider an overemphasis of the situation which has disturbed the public mind.

Relief officials were basing their plans on last year's experience. They estimate that while the census bureau indicated 6,000,000 were out of work, the number in distress was between 2,000,000 and 5,000,000.

There were two groups of these, according to relief experts, one composed of unfortunate and sick who had to be given funds or supplies; and another made up of those who could be helped by "made work."

The administration also takes into consideration an estimate that in normal times there are about 1,500,000 out of work continuously due to the usual turnover of jobs, and calculates that more than 1,000,000 were only seasonably unemployed.

Relief officials take no stock in estimates that 6,000,000 unemployed means that counting members of workers' families 30,000,000 are in distress.

They have figures indicating that there are 17 "breadwinners" to every 10 families and that therefore most families have some income left.

It also is the view of federal officials that the relief problem next winter will be much less serious than last in one respect, because the burden of 2,000,000 drouth victims has been removed.

CAUFIELD TO ANNOUNCE JOBLESS COMMITTEE

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Governor Caufield expects to announce his statewide committee on employment relief within the next week, it was said today at the executive offices.

NAVAL BUILDING NEAR $200,000,000

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Naval ship construction costing in excess of $200,000,000 will be under way shortly after the navy department awards contracts for the building of 11 destroyers to cost a total of $50,000,000.

The bids are to be opened next Wednesday on these craft, the first designed by the navy under the terms of the London naval treaty.

The navy department hopes the successful bidders will be able to begin work on the vessels in early October, so that shipyard workmen may be employed in the winter months.

One of the 1,500-ton, 35-knot ships, is to be built at the Brooklyn, N. Y., navy yard, to avert a work load slump and resultant discharge of experienced workers. For the other ten, bids are expected from a half dozen private east coast yards, and naval yards at Boston, Charleston, S. C.; Mare Island, Cal.; Puget Sound, Wash., and Norfolk, Va.

M'DONALD'S FOES ATTACK PROGRAM

Labor Leaders Jeer Prime Minister for Stand on Taxation.

BY FRANK H. KING.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Embittered labor members of parliament launched their attack against the national government's drastic program of taxation and economy today in a turbulent session of the house of commons.

"I am driven to it by national necessity," pleaded Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald in behalf of his economy bill, but his old followers only jeered and taunted him.

Finally the angry flood of debate terminated in a sharp scene between Lady Nancy Astor, conservative, and Mrs. Leah Manning, labor member from North London.

The prime minister justified the imposition of orders in council—characterized by the opposition as approaching a dictatorship—because of the urgency of the financial situation.

But when he said, "I am speaking for labor," an uproar of ironic laughter burst from the opposition benches.

Mr. MacDonald retorted bitterly to his former colleagues, who have ousted him from the labor party leadership.

"They can take the label from my back," he said, "but they cannot take the label from my mind"

Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, explained in a broadcast to the man in the street tonight the reasons for the new taxes, economies and sacrifices.

He described what "a terrible calamity" it would have been if the country had "gone off the gold standard."

Smugglers' Reprisal Suspected in Slaying

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(UP)—Salvatore Maranzona, shot and stabbed to death in a Park avenue office building yesterday, was to have been summoned within a few days for questioning by federal authorities in connection with a large alien smuggling ring, it became known today.

Maranzona had been under scrutiny for some time and was suspected of being one of the ring's leaders, according to United States District Attorney George Z. Medalie. It is considered likely that others connected with the ring killed him to prevent his giving information against them.

While government agents pressed their investigation of the slaying from this angle, police continued to delve into Maranzona's multifarious activities which, they say, included liquor running and trade racketeering.

Elsie Janis Hails Plane As Ideal Writing Scene

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 11.—(AP) Elsie Janis, stage and screen star, said the "best place in the world" for literary endeavor is an airplane at a good altitude.

She flew to New York two weeks ago in a plane containing a desk and worked busily in the air on her autobiography. The same activity occupied her on the way back in her "flying office."

She arrived here yesterday.

"No telephones up there," she said. "No callers. No disturbances of any kind. And plenty of inspiration."

COLORED BAPTISTS NAME NEW HEADS

National Baptist convention elections, which were held up Thursday night by four hours of balloting which resulted in the naming of Dr. L. K. Williams as president, were resumed Friday, and the entire list of officers was completed. Prominent white churchmen spoke at the Friday session. Mrs. W. J. Neal, Georgia Baptist Women's Union, sounded the first interracial note of the meeting when she gave a talk, "How the Two Races Can Work Together," a note which was carried on by the following speaker, Mrs. John Hope, who gave a resume of the work of the interracial groups in the south. Miss Florence Reed, president of Spelman College, who was scheduled to give an address, was out of the city.

Mrs. Jessie Daniel Ames, director of woman's work commission on interracial co-operation, speaking before the afternoon meeting, stated: "The most interesting situation I have studied or observed is this one of interracial adjustment. The matter of adjustment between the two major racial groups lie largely in the hands of the women. We are mothers of the children who will form the backbone of the next generation. We teach them at home, at school, and in the churches, and if we implant the right attitude toward all people in their minds, a respect for personality, it will become a part of their thinking, a habit in their conduct and in due time will eliminate all problems."

In reference to lynching in the south, Mrs. Ames said: "Lynching simply shows to the world that we are not adult enough to be trusted with the principles of democratic government. We southern white women are determined that lynching shall cease in the south and I pledge that the white women of the south will not fail in this effort to blot out lynching and bring about the racial adjustment we want."

A complete program of demonstrations from the young people's group, headed by Mrs. L. L. Craig, national director, Atlanta, followed Mrs. Ames' speech. A second demonstration from this group started with a torch-light parade at 7:30 o'clock Friday night from Liberty Baptist church to Wheat Street Baptist church. Banners, pennants and placards representing all phases of the group's work were on display. Exercises followed at Wheat Street church.

The following general officers were elected: Dr. D. Jemison, of Mobile, Ala., first vice president-at-large; regional vice president, Dr. M. L. Sheppard, Philadelphia; Dr. A. L. Boone, Ohio; Rev. W. A. Rozier, California; general secretary, Dr. J. M. Nabrit, Atlanta, succeeding the late Dr. R. B. Hudson, of Alabama; assistant secretaries, Dr. T. O. Fuller, Memphis; Dr. E. Arlington Wilson, Dallas, Texas; Dr. U. G. Robinson, Mobile; Rev. T. S. Harten, Brooklyn, N. Y.; treasurer, Dr. R. B. Roberts, Memphis; auditor, Fred Morris, of Chicago, elected unanimously; statistician, Dr. Sumner, Florida; historian, Dr. L. G. Jordan; attorney, Charles M. Robinson, Louisiana; editor of the National Baptist Voice, Rev. R. E. Barbour, Nashville, Tenn.

After the election was completed Dr. J. C. Jackson, of Connecticut, the defeated candidate for president, came to the platform and delivered a congratulatory address to the re-elected president and the convention. He stated: "My supporters and I pledge you absolute co-operation in the execution of the program of the convention and the success of its work during the next year."

Friday night's session was known as "Booker T. Washington Night," an annual affair.

Dr. W. H. R. Powell, of Philadelphia, addressed the assembly on "The Present Economic Status Among Colored People in America and Some Measures of Relief." After citing the progress of the negro from a standing of 98 per cent illiteracy to one of 85 per cent literacy, with all of its economic, social and political progress, he charged that the American negro was nearly 100 per cent in the bread line.

The 1,000-voice chorus gave 15-minute concert at opening of the session under the direction of George Garner.

VANDERBILT HEIRESS WEDS BOND SALESMAN

MANHASSET, N. Y., Sept. 11.—(AP)—A Vanderbilt heiress today became the bride of a Providence bond salesman.

Mrs. Muriel Vanderbilt Church was married, in a simple civil ceremony, to Henry Delafield Phelps at the country estate of the bride's mother, Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt.

The ceremony was marked by the absence of bridesmaids, ushers and wedding gifts, for the bride urged her guests to contribute the money they would have spent for gifts toward unemployment relief.

Approximately 300 of the socially elite filed through the main entrance to the estate to attend a garden party and dance that followed the ceremony. As they entered they were scrutinized closely by a coatless watchman whose black derby and soiled shirt lent an incongruous touch to the brilliant occasion.

About an hour before the ceremony one of Mrs. Vanderbilt's blue ribbon horses broke away and galloped across the estate, throwing the early arrivals into an uproar before he was captured.

About 30 guards, many of them private detectives, were posted around the estate to prevent "gate crashing."

The ceremony took place promptly at 4 o'clock (E. S. T.) in a room decked with pink roses and ferns. Just outside was the famous marble hallway, also banked with flowers.

The bride wore a pale peach chiffon velvet dress, trimmed with white fox fur, and a hat to match. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and white gardenias.

CAROLINIAN DENIES DIPLOMA FORGERY

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 11.—(AP)—The Associated Press yesterday quoted Jack Yarmov, of Raleigh, but a native of New Jersey, as telling the North Carolina supreme court that he had forged a law diploma of Dickinson College, Pennsylvania. This was erroneous.

Yarmov, whose law license was protested, said he wrote the college printers for a copy of a Dickinson diploma after he had been informed he would not receive one, intending to show it to his mother, who was in a "dying" condition. He said his mother never saw the diploma. His letter to the printers was turned over to the law school's dean.

LEVER IS SPEAKER AT FARM MEETING

Cotton Problem Centers Discussion at Gathering of State Chamber.

TIFTON, Ga., Sept. 11.—(AP)—With about 500 persons, representing various sections of the state, in attendance, the annual meeting of the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce was held here today, with the discussion of farm problems as its purpose.

A. Frank Lever, representing the federal farm board, delivered one of the principal talks of the morning session, with the cotton problem as his subject.

Representative Homer Nelson, of Adel, read a message from T. W. Sterrett, of Atlanta, on how farmers may become farm owners, Mr. Sterrett being unable to attend. It outlined a plan whereby tenants may buy farms on a fifteen-year payment plan. He is required to put up no cash, making the initial and following payments from farm operations. This plan has been arranged by loan companies owning a considerable number of Georgia farms.

In his address of welcome Speaker of the House Arlie D. Tucker pledged his efforts to obtain cotton relief in case an extra session of the legislature is called. But he said that any effort at control by legislation is wrong, that it is an "individual proposition and each individual must work it out."

In her address which was a feature of the afternoon session, Miss Mae A. Schnurr, of the reclamation bureau of the department of interior, discussing rural organization, stated "the farmer first must produce the greater part of what he and his family consume and in choice of money crops should study his soil and climate and find where and how he can locate a buyer."

She said that organization is the answer to the equalization of supply and demand; that the answer to good farming is farm ownership and not tenant farming and that any effort to bring about farmer ownership is commendable. She pledged the interest and help of her organization in the work.

Mr. Lever said the situation is one of underconsumption, not overproduction, that we have a cotton surplus not because the world does not want our cotton, but because they cannot buy it; that cotton farmers are not a unit alone but depend on world markets.

"The people of the south should work out their own economic salvation and not have it thrust on them by the government," he said. "Legislative relief will be insufficient until the individual gets busy. Any plan for relief calls for 100 per cent cooperation."

In the afternoon meeting resolutions were adopted calling attention to state conditions, saying return of normalcy depended on the farmer getting a reasonable return for his products and not paternalism of government. The resolutions urged farm ownership and discouraged long loans, urged a survey in each community for the manufacture of products and recommended that no plan or policies be adopted conflicting with establishing and maintaining a sound credit structure.

Committees were named to select a president and arrange for the refinancing of the organization. Several talks were made at a round table discussion. No direct action was taken by the meeting on any cotton control plan but many of the speakers were opposed to legislative action.

CARNESVILLE MEETING VOTES FOR LONG PLAN

CARNESVILLE, Ga., Sept. 11.—The Long plan was adopted, 101 to 7, at a meeting of Franklin county farmers held today at the courthouse. The meeting was called by the Franklin county representative, Rush Burton, who wished to determine the attitude of the farmers toward the cotton situation, and was presided over by former State Senator George Goode.

Most of the farmers favored relief of some kind whether by the Long plan or the reduction of acreage. Two of the speakers, farmers of high standing, did not desire governmental interference, thinking it better for the farmer to work out his own salvation.

FARM BOARD BLAMED FOR CRISIS IN COTTON

SPARTA, Ga., Sept. 11.—Representative J. O. Wall, of Putnam county, spoke to a large assemblage of farmers here this afternoon in the courthouse. He blamed the present high tariff and the federal farm board for the crisis which now confronts the cotton farmers of the south.

Mr. Wall said: "Indications point to a deliberate plot on the part of the speculators to have the farmers raise a big crop of cotton this year on the ruse that the farm board would hold up the price." He urged the farmers to adopt the Long plan and grow no cotton next year.

After his address J. C. Evans, well-known citizen of Warrenton and a former banker, spoke to the audience, urging them to follow the plan of no cotton next year. The farmers present seemed heartily in accord with both speakers.

WILLIAMS' INSURANCE IS SOUGHT BY WIDOW

AUGUSTA, Ga., Sept. 11.—(AP)—The Chronicle said Friday in a special dispatch from Portsmouth, N. H., that the 18-year-old widow of Raford Williams, sailor in whose slaying his father, the Rev. J. Monroe Williams is held, announced she would file suit to recover $2,500 insurance on her husband's life.

The father, who has denied police charges that he killed his son to obtain the insurance, has already collected the money. Despite Williams' efforts to establish his innocence, he has been suspended indefinitely by his church. He is a Methodist preacher of Rochelle, Ga.

The widow of the son said she was preparing to come to Georgia shortly. She is now at the home of a sister, Mrs. Ralph A. Spinney, in Portsmouth, N. H. She formerly was Miss Georgia Gerry, of Kittery, Maine, and met young Williams when he was at a naval hospital station.

Mrs. Williams said she received a letter from her husband's father shortly after the sailor's body was found August 5 on a highway near Augusta, giving details of the death and expressing sympathy. The letter is now in the hands of her attorneys.

Williams also left an infant daughter.

BULLET HOLES REVEAL MEADERS SHOT IN BACK

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 11.—New evidence in the recent slaying of H. B. Harris, Watkinsville rural mail carrier, was revealed today by Sheriff A. Y. Crowley, of Oconee county.

Sheriff Crowley stated that four bullet holes had been found in the shirt Harris was wearing and that one of them was in the small of his back and one on the back of his shoulder. The others were in front, close to the heart.

It was first thought by those examining the shirt that the bullet hole in the back was caused by one of the front bullets going through the body, but powder burns on the back of the shirt led the prosecution to believe that Harris was shot once in the back. All of the other holes also show powder burns.

A. W. Meaders testified that he shot Harris three times, at the committal trial held in Watkinsville a few days ago, and that the shots entered from the front. Meaders was bound over to the grand jury under $1,000 bond, charged with voluntary manslaughter.

Vedder Sitton Found Dead at Old Fair Grounds in Valdosta.

VALDOSTA, Ga., Sept. 11.—A coroner's jury this afternoon returned a verdict that C. V. Sitton, 55, of Brunswick, came to his death by a self-inflicted wound.

The body of Sitton was found this afternoon at the old fair grounds in the eastern part of this city, a party having been searching for the missing man for several hours.

Sitton, 15 or 20 years ago, was a nationally known baseball pitcher, playing with Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Louis, in the major leagues, and later in the Southern league with New Orleans and Nashville.

For many years he had been connected with the Hercules Powder Company, of Brunswick, at one time doing field work and later being transferred to the chemical department. He had been in Valdosta about four months, apparently enjoying a vacation.

Don't Rasp Your Income With Harsh Expenses!

"Ride the Street Cars Instead"

Day after day, we notice new faces on the street cars. Many of them are old friends who gave up street car riding several years ago. Some of them are folks who have grown up since the automobile became popular and who have never been on a street car before.

Many old-fashioned virtues are back in style again. Economy of the right sort, cutting off useless expenses, is one of them. And THE RETURN TO STREET CAR RIDING is under way!

It's no disgrace any more to live inside your income. Folks everywhere are "taking thought" about the family budget as they haven't done in years. And they tell us it has brought a realization that using the automobile on every and all occasions was simply a HABIT. Now they are RIDING STREET CARS and saving the automobile for trips where street cars don't run.

It saves money for them, they say, and that helps them in meeting other expenses. It saves unnecessary wear and tear on the family auto. It saves no end of nerve strain, too, in traffic driving—and that's no small item in this year of 1931 when all of us have worries enough and to spare.

These folks tell us, too, that the thing which surprises them most, since they returned to street car riding, is the large number of prominent men and leading society matrons and misses they see riding the street cars regularly.

Street car riding has never gone out of style with these folks who make a practice of getting REAL VALUE for what they spend.

They are the sort of people who don't have to worry about "Keeping Up With the Jones." Many of them have two or more automobiles, but long ago they decided that traffic congestion made street car riding the common sense way for all downtown trips. Taking advantage of sensible economies in all phases of life is a habit with them, too, that has helped to make their financial position secure, even in the face of business depression.

GIVE STREET CAR RIDING A TRIAL! The saving is quite considerable—a saving without any sacrifice. The convenience of it, the pleasure of not having to hunt parking places, the relief from nerve strain, and the safety of it, are extra dividends it pays—over and above the economy of it.

WOOD, M'CLELLAND REQUEST PAY CUTS

City Judge, Solicitor Sacrifice $2,000 in Economy Move.

Sacrificing $2,000 a year each notwithstanding that their salaries are out of the reach of the county commission, Judge Jesse M. Wood, of criminal court of Atlanta, and John S. McClelland, solicitor of the court, Friday joined in the general county pay cut by asking the commission to pay them only $10,000 a year instead of $12,000.

Letters from the court officers asked the commission to make the reductions at the November meeting, when salaries will be fixed for 1932.

Judge Wood's salary is fixed at $12,000 a year by law, and McClelland's at $10,000. The commission, however, had fixed McClelland's at $12,000 for his term of office. Salaries of the superior court judges were cut from $12,000 to $10,000 a year by the commission at a recent meeting.

Other officials whose salaries are set by law are Solicitor-General John A. Boykin, who draws $12,000 a year; Judge Hugh Dorsey, of city court of Atlanta, $12,000 a year, and Judge Garland Watkins, of the juvenile court, $9,000 a year. The salary of Jere A. Wells, county school superintendent, is $7,500 a year, and is fixed by the county board of education, which has power to raise or lower it at any time.

Judge Dorsey is expected to follow with a request that his salary be slashed similarly. He said he was not ready to discuss his course at this time, but would have a definite statement later.

Cam Dorsey, president of the Fulton county board of education, which fixes all salaries of school department employes, said he expected no revisions of salaries downward, since "I consider that no official or employe of the school system is overpaid."

Walter C. Hendrix, chairman of the county commission, Friday said that he commends Judge Wood and Solicitor McClelland for their action and that the commission probably will be able to find some way to receive the $2,000 a year for the county from each of the two officers.

Judge Wood wrote Mr. Hendrix that on account of the present continued business depression and promoted by a desire to co-operate with the board in reducing county expenses and tax burdens of the citizens, he felt it his duty to make the salary reduction request. Solicitor McClelland expressed complete harmony with the commission in its plan of adjustments and assured the commission of his desire to render Fulton county loyal and conscientious service at all times, with the hope that those in the service of the county whose pay is small will be spared any material reduction.

Bulk of Nation Held in Grip of Late Heat Wave

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Still striving for new records in its waning days, summer sent shimmering heat waves across the continent today from New England to the torrid southwest plains and from Florida to the Dakotas.

Twenty-seven states drooped under 90-degree temperatures yesterday and the belated summer blast went on uninterrupted today.

Even the northern lake regions suffered, Sault Ste. Marie recording a temperature of 92 yesterday, while across the border in Toronto the mercury reached 96.

Six deaths have been attributed to the four-day siege in Wisconsin, where 98 and 99-degree readings were common. Three persons died in Montreal. Persistent southwest winds in Chicago fended off any possible relief from lake breezes and the mercury climbed to 91 at 1 p. m. today, threatening the old record of 95 degrees for late September.

Schools were closed at Winona, Minn., because of the unbearable heat. At St. Paul, where the top quotation was 100 yesterday, thermometers touched 92 at noon, at Milwaukee 93, at Duluth 91, at Kansas City 92, at Omaha 90, and Des Moines 91.

The weather bureaus offered little relief, save for cooling weather in the northern border and western states.

DR. GREEN OPPOSES 'OPEN SUNDAY' VOTE

Dr. Samuel Green, chairman of the city democratic committee, Friday opposed proposed city-wide referenda on prohibition, Sunday amusements, including baseball, and one-man street cars, saying any such proposals should come as a general public demand and not from members of the committee or subcommittee.

Fred P. Gibbs has announced he will insist on a referendum to determine how Atlantans feel concerning prohibition. He also will join Tom C. Smith in demanding a referendum on Sunday amusements, and Smith will seek the one-man street car expression.

If plans develop, the referenda will be attached to the primary ballot on which Atlantans vote October 21.

VETS' CAMP MOURNS PASSING OF AYER

Resolutions deploring the death Tuesday in Augusta of Cornelius K. Ayer, 60, prominent Atlanta cotton goods executive, were adopted Friday by Camp John B. Gordon, Sons of Confederate Veterans, and sympathy was extended to the family. The funeral services were conducted Thursday morning at Rome, Ga. Mr. Ayer was a former commander of Camp John B. Gordon and had been active in its affairs for many years.

TUCKER YOUTH FREED IN FATAL STABBING

Theodore Williams, 16, of Tucker, held in DeKalb county jail since August 28 in connection with the fatal stabbing on that date of Louis Jolly, following revival services at the Oak Grove Baptist church, was released Friday after the county grand jury, in session at Decatur, returned a no bill. Williams was said to have stabbed Jolly after the latter struck his brother.

MOTOR CLUB URGES TRAFFIC COURTESY

Enforcement of the present parking and traffic laws, more courteous treatment of motorists by policemen, continuance of the special traffic court in the city hall, and praise for the mayor's traffic committee featured resolutions adopted at a meeting of the Atlanta Motor Club Friday in the Winecoff hotel.

It was pointed out at the meeting that 7,558 automobiles without parking lights were counted upon Atlanta streets on a checkup last week. B. C. Broyles, chairman of the safety traffic committee, presided.

Beck Fund Trustees Give $2,500 to Group

The Atlanta Tuberculosis Association, with headquarters at 286 Forrest avenue, is the recipient of a $2,500 check presented to the institution by trustees of the Lewis J. Beck Fund, a $60,000 charitable endowment created by the will of the late president of the Beck & Gregg Hardware Company, it was announced Friday by R. K. Rambo, president of the association.

The Beck fund was left to be disbursed among worthy agencies of charity and welfare work, at the pleasure of the three trustees, the announcement stated. The trustees are Mrs. Beaumont Davison, Mrs. F. M. Robinson and Frank Berry.

ZACHARY IS INDICTED FOR SLAYING WOMAN

Leland Q. Zachary, World War veteran, Friday was indicted by the Fulton county grand jury for the murder of Mrs. Effie M. Cook, who was slain at her home, 1077 Wylie street, S. E., Tuesday morning.

One of several other murder indictments returned Friday involved the changing of the bill from a charge of assault with intent to murder to one of murder while the grand jury was in session. A witness in the case of Grady Brooks, negro, who is charged with shooting Lizzie Irvin, told the grand jury "that woman's dead." Investigation revealed this to be true, and the charge was changed. Several other murder bills involved negroes.

Olin Smith, a witness in the case of Clyde Alley, who is charged with the murder of J. C. Bruce, was indicted with Bill Vinson on two counts of larceny of automobiles.

The grand jury returned true bills against five white boys held for robbery. D. A. Lockridge, Alvin Glaze and T. M. Wofford were named defendants in five bills. T. T. Collins in three, Tom McGowan in one indictment and Wofford in an additional bill. Among those robbed were Hugh Dorsey Jr. and Miss Bobbie Crew; George H. Lacy, of College Park; B. E. Heron, of 14 East Seventeenth; I. D. Reese, of 1299 Stewart avenue; Canton Hixson, of 1225 Marietta, N. W., and George Turpen, of Lakewood and Stewart avenues.

Sam Daniel was indicted on a charge of robbing Grover C. Tulley, of 510 Ashby, S. W., of $170.

CONTRACTS AWARDED FOR ASPHALT PAVING

Fourteen bids were received by the state highway board Friday preliminary to its award of contracts for the construction of approximately 25 miles of asphalt paving to cost $144,000.

Sam E. Finley, of Atlanta, was given the contract to build 7.22 miles of asphalt highway on the Valdosta-Lake Park road in Lowndes county at a low bid of $35,522.52.

A contract for 14.71 miles of asphalt road on the coastal highway in Bryan and Liberty counties was awarded to William P. McDonald, Atlanta, on a bid of $95,358.34 and contract for 1.32 miles of paving on the Atlanta-Marietta route just outside of Marietta also was awarded to the McDonald firm on a bid of $14,608.75.

GEIGER PROMOTED, LEAVING TONIGHT

A farewell banquet was given for F. H. Geiger, manager of the Pullman shops in Atlanta, by the Pullman Supervisors' Club Friday night. Mr. Geiger will leave Atlanta tonight for St. Louis, where he will assume his new duties as manager of the group there, a considerable promotion.

Mr. Geirge came to Atlanta four years ago when the present Pullman shops were established here and has been manager since that time. With a record of 31 years with the company, his greatest success in any period has been in his Atlanta capacity, and it was for this service the company promoted him to the larger branch in St. Louis.

Formerly an assistant manager in St. Louis, the city is not new to him, although it has been several years since he has worked there.

The banquet was attended by many employes as well as a number of personal friends of Mr. Geiger and his family.

REYNOLDS NAMED BY ELKS RULER

Robert E. Lee Reynolds, secretary of the Georgia Elks Association and a member of Atlanta lodge, No. 78, B. P. O. E., has been appointed district deputy grand exalted ruler for Georgia, north, by John R. Coen, grand exalted ruler.

Mr. Reynolds has been an enthusiastic member of the order for years. He has lived in Atlanta since 1922, coming here from New York state.

With Judge B. B. Heery, of Savannah, who is the district deputy grand exalted ruler for Georgia, south, Mr. Reynolds will attend a meeting of all deputy grand exalted rulers at the national Elks' headquarters September 19 and 20 in Chicago.

DR. HAYMORE IS NAMED PASTOR AT KIRKWOOD

Dr. J. M. Haymore, widely known evangelist and one of the south's leading Baptist ministers, has become pastor of the Kirkwood Baptist church, of which he was formerly a member, to succeed Dr. J. L. Jackson, who was killed May 8 in an automobile accident, it was announced Friday.

Dr. Haymore, who has been pastor of some of the largest churches in the south, will conduct both morning and evening services at the Kirkwood church Sunday. His subject for the morning service, scheduled for 11 o'clock, will be "Lord Open His Eyes That He May See." At the evening service, scheduled for 7:30 o'clock, he will speak on "The Wages of Sin."

MINISTERS TO PREACH IN PRIZE FIGHT RING

Two well-known negro ministers will discuss religious questions Friday night, September 18, at Roby's arena, corner Courtland and Cain streets. B. C. Baskerville and C. A. Spense, of Central America, will discuss the subject, "God in Nature, and Why I Believe There Is a God."

On the same program the Rev. C. L. Willey will speak on "The Little Things in Life." Music will be furnished by the Dixie quartet, and there will be a section reserved for white people.

TRAFFIC BOARD ASKS COUNCIL COOPERATION

Irked because council has approved only two of the eight recommendations it has made for traffic improvement in Atlanta, Mayor James L. Key's special traffic commission Friday took steps to obtain closer co-operation of council.

The mayor and members of the traffic committee of council were invited to attend a luncheon meeting of the commission September 25.

ATLANTA, GA., SEPT. 12, 1931.

OUTSIDE ITS FUNCTION.

Should the city executive committee include on the ballot to be used in the city election of October 21 the referenda suggested by certain of its members, it will be taking action outside of its legally authorized functions.

Executive committees, be they city, county or state, are charged by law solely with the duty of arranging for the holding of primary elections to secure expressions on men and measures to be voted on under provision of law.

Chairman Green, of the city committee, is right in his statement that all referenda should come from the voters and not from committee members.

It is proposed to inject a prohibition referendum into the October election. A legal way for such a referendum is provided and already a group of citizens under the leadership of John A. Manget are taking steps to invoke this law by calling for a referendum on Mayor Key as the result of his criticism of the failure of the attempt to enforce the Volstead law.

Such a legally conducted referendum would constitute an accurate reflection of the will of the people, but a referendum injected into an election called for other purposes would fail of its purpose.

Such action is no business of the committee's, and it should stick to its proper functions as provided by the law.

CHINA AND OUR SURPLUSES.

The selling of the farm board's holdings of cotton and wheat to China on long credit is advocated by the Detroit News both as a humanitarian move to relieve the suffering millions of that country and as a way to solve the problem of what to do with our surplus crops.

This, thinks the News, would be the best answer to the appeals for stricken China that are now being sent to the United States, chiefly because it would "remove the very sound objection here that charity begins at home." Discussing what it believes would be the far-reaching beneficial effects of selling to China, instead of giving, the News says:

In China the enterprise would, of course, be the instrument of rescuing unnumbered souls from lingering death and the ravages of disease. Moreover, it is possible it would have salutary and far-reaching effects on the country's political course. It would conceivably be the means of inspiring a new national spirit in the country, bringing prestige to the nationalist government as indicating an attitude of willing responsibility, and creating that feeling of solidarity among conflicting partisans which springs from a joint attitude in a common humanitarian cause.

The proposal is based upon the assumption that sooner or later China will pay for this cotton and wheat—which is extremely doubtful.

The present nationalist government, beset by insurrection in the south and constant soviet threats from many quarters, and largely dependent upon the support of the Manchurian war lords for its continued existence, is holding on by the slimmest of threads. The country itself is even more impoverished than it was under its former imperialistic rule.

So, as plausible as the suggestion of the News would seem, the probability is that the sales proposition would in the end be tantamount to a gift.

Jack Dempsey is having great success in the northwest with his predigested knock-out stunts.

Secretary Stimson returns well pleased with his European tour. Most people feel that way when Uncle Sam foots the bills.

TOBACCONISTS PROTEST.

Tobacco brokers and merchants of Atlanta are faced with an acute situation as the result of steadily increasing purchases from out of the state by the smokers of Atlanta.

Following the increased state sales tax on cigarets and cigars, brokers in North Carolina, Alabama and Florida, where there is no tax on tobacco, sent sales representatives to Georgia.

These salesmen lost no time in informing local buyers that they could effect material savings by placing their orders with out-of-town houses, which would fill them promptly, postage paid and tax free.

Naturally as this information gradually became more generally known out-of-town orders increased rapidly, with an accompanying decrease in the volume of business done by Georgia tobacconists.

Not only have these Georgia business houses suffered, but thousands of dollars each month are being taken out of circulation in the state.

The past few months, according to a recent editorial comment of the Tobacco Record, trade journal published in Atlanta, has seen "untaxed cigaret imports increase, sales of cigaret machines increase, smokers deciding it was a good time to 'swear off' on account of the increased tax, and retailers going into bankruptcy."

Faced with such a situation, it is not to be wondered that the local tobacco merchants are planning to ask the governor to include a revision of the tobacco tax in the event he calls the legislature together in special session.

FULTON COUNTY PARITY.

The semi-official statement that after this year the county commissioners will see to it that property assessments in Fulton county are kept more in proportion with those throughout the state, is one that the people will hope to have fully realized.

The people of this county are under no moral or just obligation to pay more per capita for state government than are the people in the smallest county of the state. In fact, Fulton county inhabitants get less of the real services of the state government than those of any other county in Georgia—especially those living in that great majority of counties that draw more money from the state every year than they pay into its treasury.

Taking the total digest of assessments in all the other 159 counties and dividing the sum by the total population in those counties, we may arrive at the proper per capita of assessments for Fulton county. Then by multiplying the county population by that per capita figure, we will arrive at the proper total assessment to put upon the property of the county for state taxation purposes.

As it is, this county pays about one-fourth of the state ad valorem taxes. On a square deal all around it should pay far less and there is nothing more likely to wake the state up to demand a just system of assessments than for Fulton county to bring her assessments on a par with those sent up by the average county of the state.

It is the only way to stop the raiding of Fulton county by the people of the other counties.

A WORRIED REPUBLICAN.

Why the amount of money loaned by Chairman Raskob to the democratic national committee should have such an exciting interest to the Philadelphia Public Ledger, a republican organ of the rhinohide order, is something no one, perhaps, can explain except its proprietor, Cyrus H. K. Curtis.

Almost any one else, reading what the Public Ledger has to say about it, would think Raskob must have got the money by holding up the cashier of that opulent newspaper. But the public in general will not become equally excited with the P. L. because of the loan made to the democratic national committee.

Now, if the point of the game was to guess how John J. R. is to get his loan paid back in due time, then the P. L. could be excused for shooting at the mark. But, that isn't the game. John J. doesn't seem to be worrying over that question. He seems satisfied that the democrats of the country will not invoke a part in the Hoover moratorium in order to keep him out of his money.

So, until J. J. R. sues out a writ of bail trover on the party assets, or applies for a capias ad satisfaciendum, or words to that effect, to be served on Jimmie Gerard, the party treasurer, the steamed-up Public Ledger will do well to stick to its home knitting—the defense of the Hoover-Grundy racketeer tariff.

Republican whoopee-makers are hoping the voters will not be too darned curious in 1932.

If you will pardon our preference we would rather not break our neck trying to break a flying record.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

"Gallant" Germans.

The following letter is taken from The London Times. It was written by Sir Sydney Low: "I am glad to know that the British war graves commission is taking over the charge of the German tombs in the cemetery at Mons. It is a strangely affecting place, that burial ground of St. Symphorien on the slopes east of the little Belgian town where the greatest of all the world's wars began and ended. I visited it a few years ago on a cloudy and rainy anniversary of Armistice Day. On the slippery paths and hillocks we stumbled among graves. I noted the obelisk which the Germans had erected to the memory of 'the German and British heroes.' That was a magnanimous gesture, and it is now fitly acknowledged by the arrangement under which our (the British) war graves commission will take charge of all the graves in the cemetery and will see that those of our gallant enemies shall be as well cared for as our own are all along the old fighting front."

I wish to draw attention to the fact that the Germans are called "gallant enemies" in this letter. In doing so the letter-writer honors himself and our own troops. The foolish notion scattered about in war-time that they were Huns, cowards, bad soldiers, Boches and the like never appealed to me after we had been fighting them with forces outnumbering them by 10-1 during four years, and couldn't beat them until America came in.

Human Barometer.

Parisians are laughing at present about the adventures of a very worthy official. Recent weather conditions have caused the average citizen to take an apprehensive kind of interest in the barometer. There is one office in Paris where the employes rely upon what they believe is an unfailing guide as to whether it is going to rain or not.

When the human barometer comes to the office armed with an umbrella they confidently expect a day of heat and sunshine. When he leaves his umbrella at home and arrives dressed for fine weather they may prepare for the worst. There would not be much point in this were it not for the fact that the official in question is the chief of the statistical and forecasting office of the national weather bureau.

So far as personal weather precautions are concerned, he is usually living a day or two ahead.

GAS BLAST DESTROYS CLEVELAND APARTMENT

CLEVELAND, Sept. 11.—(AP)—An explosion believed caused by the igniting of escaping gas leveled an unoccupied four-suite east side apartment house early today.

Flames that belched forth in the blast ignited apartment houses on either side, and occupants gained safety only after several dramatic rescues. Beyond a few minor bruises none was injured.

Firemen extinguished the flames before they made headway. Damage to the houses was estimated at $20,000.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 11.—Last three days of shooting on the Lawrence Tibbett picture brings stars from all corners of the lot to watch the Metropolitan artist do his big scenes.

No temperament about Lawrence Tibbett. No locked sets like Greta Garbo's—no up-stage—not even so much as some of the little "bit" actors who earn $10 or $12 a day. Buster Keaton, very silent and attentive, wedged in between a studio lamp and a camera crane. Bob Montgomery, the handsome newest star in the M.-G.-M. male firmament, there to hear the million-dollar voice. Executives, down from those remote sanctums which are so hard to penetrate. And the great army of workers which is the necessary part of shooting a picture.

"The Cuban" is bringing singing back—or rather is a perfect exemplification of the returning popularity of music in cinema. Tibbett sings six numbers—all musically of finer calibre than most songs written into gelatine entertainment.

A smudge pot with sulphur fumes is started on a nearby set. Nobody senses it but the baritone. "I say," he calls out to Director Van Dyke, "you don't suppose you could have that thing shut off until I finish this scene, do you—it's rather hard on the throat, old man—"

The other stars grin sheepishly: "Any one of us would have torn the roof off if that had happened to us for a talking scene," whispers one to the other. In the cast are Ernest Torrance and Jimmy Durante—buddies in the battle scenes, helmeted and in full active service uniforms.

"They take this war picture seriously," mutters Jimmy Durante, weighing the gas mask container ruefully—"this thing alone must be good for 14 pounds or so."

The battle began in earnest: And if you think these cinema wars are playful you'd have to see earth and rocks and bits of trees flying about the head of one Lawrence Tibbett and he singing the while. Movie-making is a great life.

Barbara Stanwyck will have to fulfill her contract with Columbia, most probably, since a temporary restraining order prevents her from making her picture at another studio until that matter is definitely settled.

And throughout the industry executives are looking like the cat that ate the canary. Satisfied and calm with that expression in the eye that says, "Better days coming for us who draw up contracts."

STERLING FROWNS ON LONG PROPOSAL

tion of anyone threatening cotton laborers. This action resulted when the farmers became angered at crude "warnings" posted on several farms in the Little Rock area threatening lives of cotton pickers if they picked cotton at the prevailing rate of 35 cents per hundred pounds. Cotton pickers in two other sections of Arkansas also reported threats.

New Relief Plan.

Another plan for relief of the cotton situation was made public in Washington. Senator Hastings, republican, Delaware, suggested formation of a private corporation to take over and dispose of cotton held by the federal farm board.

The proposal, suggested by Senator Hastings, was made by H. O. Schundler, of New York. The senator said Schundler was supported by interests which would furnish $58,000,000 working capital for the concern.

The Texas house committee bill provided a penalty of $25 per acre for acreage planted in violation of the law. The bill provided that unless states producing three-fourths of the cotton enact laws calling for similar or greater reductions, the penalty provisions would be void.

STERLING VOICES OPPOSITION TO LONG "NO COTTON" PLAN

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Another blow to supporters of the Long "no cotton in 1932" plan was struck late today when Governor R. S. Sterling indicated he would not approve a cotton holiday bill if passed by the Texas legislature.

"My feet are on the ground," Governor Sterling said. "I have not been swept off my feet yet. There is too much hysteria in Texas and the south."

The governor pointed out 10,000,000 people are dependent on cotton in the south and that the Long plan might have dire results if enacted into law.

Governor Sterling said he had conferred, directly or indirectly, today with the governors of all cotton growing states and found only one for the Long plan. He declined to name the governor who favored it. All other governors were for cotton acreage reduction and conservation measures.

Oklahoma Against Plan.

Governor Sterling said he talked to Governor Murray, of Oklahoma, this afternoon and Murray said Oklahoma was absolutely against the Long plan. At a mass meeting in one of the large Oklahoma growing counties only 6 of 600 farmers present favored the Long plan, Governor Sterling said Governor Murray reported to him.

"The southern states are looking to Texas for leadership to save the cotton industry," Governor Sterling stated. "I accept the challenge. I offer cotton acreage reduction and soil conservation—nothing radical or dangerous like the Long plan which would do far more harm than good.

"Not only would the cotton farmer be directly affected adversely by adoption of the Long plan but it would greatly add to the unemployment problem in the south. It would cripple the port of New Orleans and other ports through which cotton is shipped.

"I have not lost my equilibrium and there is no influence in Texas that can make me lose it. I am against the Long plan but I do favor cotton acreage reduction legislation."

The first blow struck at the Long plan came today when the house refused to instruct a special subcommittee assigned to handle the cotton acreage control bills to report back two bills—one to embody the Long plan and the other a cotton acreage reduction plan.

Committee Finishes Work.

A. P. Johnson, chairman of the house subcommittee, said the committee had finished its work on the cotton acreage reduction bill and he felt confident the governor would approve it, if passed by the legislature.

It would restrict cotton acreage to one-third the cultivated area in 1932 and prohibit planting acreage to cotton in successive years. A penalty of $25 per acre for acreage planted in cotton in violation of the law would be assessed with venue in the county where the farm was located. The attorney general and district and county attorneys were charged with enforcement of the law. They will receive 10 per cent of all penalties collected.

In addition to the $25 per acre forfeiture, which was classed as a civil penalty, persons violating the law would be subject to prosecution for misdemeanor and subject to a fine of $5 to $5,000 and imprisonment in jail not to exceed 90 days.

The bill provided that unless states producing three-fourths of the cotton enact laws calling for similar or greater reductions, the penalty and civil forfeiture provisions would be void. The bill gave the governor authority to "proclaim said fact on or before the last day of January, 1932."

TEXAS SOLONS STEER COURSE AWAY FROM LONG'S PROPOSAL

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Texas legislators steered a course tonight toward cotton acreage reduction legislation, veering away from the plan of Governor Huey P. Long, of Louisiana, for cotton prohibition in 1932.

The house of representatives voted 55 to 46 not to instruct its special committee handling cotton bills to report back on two bills, one embodying Governor Long's prohibition plan and the other providing for cotton acreage reduction.

Many members regarded this as a test vote, since it generally was understood the committee had agreed tentatively on the bill of Representative J. J. Olsen to restrict cotton planting in 1932 to one-third of the tillable land. Proponents of cotton prohibition denied that the vote was a test, claiming the house's intent was to give the committee more time.

The vote gave the committee authority to recommend to the house whatever bill it chose from the many proposals. It was given until 9 a. m. Monday to make its report.

However, proponents of cotton prohibition declared that if the committee reported favorably on the Olsen bill, a motion would be made on the floor to substitute the prohibition plan.

Adherents of Governor Long's plan called a caucus for late today.

The house adjourned until Monday and the subcommittee went to work immediately to eliminate defects in the Olsen bill.

Representative A. P. Johnson, committee chairman, said the principal constitutional question involved was whether a bill that required three-fourths of the cotton growing states to adopt a similar law before it became operative was constitutional.

Johnson said he had been advised by the attorney-general's department that no opinion as to constitutionality of the acreage reduction bill could be drafted within less than 30 days. This report irked members who favored immediate action. Leaders of the agricultural bloc insisted upon giving the committee more time.

Proceedings in the senate also were stirred by controversy.

Senator Joe Moore, of Greenville, objected to remarks by A. A. Allison, of Corsicana, chairman of the Texas farmers' legislative committee, who was speaking in favor of Governor Long's cotton prohibition plan.

"He should confine himself to arguments for a plan of relief rather than abusing the senate," Senator Moore shouted. Allison was allowed to proceed. He declared 75 per cent of Texas farmers favored cotton prohibition in 1932.

Senate advocates of acreage reduction, rather than prohibition, have agreed on a measure similar to the Olsen house bill.

PARNELL ASKS TEXAS TO ENACT LONG PLAN

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Governor Harvey Parnell tonight sent a telegram to Governor Ross Sterling pleading for speedy enactment by the Texas legislature of the Long plan for a cotton holiday in 1932 and assuring him the Arkansas legislature would enact a similar law immediately after its passage by the Texas general assembly.

The telegram said, in part:

"The cotton farmers of Arkansas are confronted with a most serious condition. In their extremity 90 per cent of them are demanding the Long plan of a cotton holiday for 1932. There is no question about their attitude in the matter."

TALMADGE, ON WAY HOME, UNHURT IN 2 TRAIN WRECKS

Eugene Talmadge, Georgia commissioner of agriculture, telephoned from New Orleans to his office Friday to say he had been in two train wrecks since he left Austin, Texas, yesterday on his way back to Atlanta. He said he was not hurt.

He said the engineer was killed when the engine left the tracks soon after getting out of Austin, and the engine quit the rails again before New Orleans was reached.

EXTENSION WORKERS ASK READJUSTMENT ON FARMS

BILOXI, Miss., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Pledging support to any plan which may be agreed upon by "intelligent and constructive" leadership of the south for meeting the present farm "emergency," the Southern Extension Workers' Association meeting here recommended today that the farmer more rapidly readjust his crop production and his standard of living.

Permanent solution of the farming problem in the south may be based, the workers said, on crop diversification to employ labor and equipment throughout the year, a crop system that will conserve land fertility thus increasing production, and adjustment of the quantity and type of cotton to world demands.

Such a readjustment and also a change in the standard of living should be brought about through education which the extension workers pledged they would continue to encourage. In its "live at home" program, the association is urging for the welfare of the farm family the following:

Conservation of food for winter use; production of the necessities for home consumption; adding to family income by marketing surplus truck; care of clothing, wise buying and use of cotton materials; efficiency in farm work equipment; budgeting of family income; maintaining family morale through comfort and beauty of home, optimistic outlook, wholesome family relationship; community work and recreation, and careful development of children.

BLACKWOOD ADDS VOICE TO SUPPORT OF LONG PLAN

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Governor Ibra C. Blackwood said tonight that Texas "can save the cotton situation" by "completely prohibiting cotton planting in 1932."

Governor Blackwood, who favors the Long plan for a complete "cotton holiday" in 1932, has called a special session of the South Carolina legislature for Monday to act on the cotton problem. When shown news dispatches from Austin indicating that Governor Ross Sterling would not sign a bill embodying the Long plan if the Texas legislature passed it, Governor Blackwood said:

"If Texas will enact a law completely prohibiting cotton planting in 1932 the other cotton states, or practically all of them, in my opinion, will follow.

"In this way Texas can save the cotton situation.

"Immediate action of this character will benefit the small producer, and most of our people, in South Carolina particularly, are small producers or holders of cotton."

INTIMIDATION OF PICKERS IS REPORTED IN ARKANSAS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Intimidation of cotton pickers in three sections of Arkansas was reported to authorities today.

At Little Rock, in the central portion, a group of cotton farmers became incensed over crude "warnings" posted on several farms and in a mass meeting passed a resolution calling upon all farmers and employes to "take whatever action necessary for protection." A reward of $100 was pledged for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone "intimidating or threatening labor."

Cotton picking was almost at a standstill around Garland City, in the southwestern part of the state because of threats broadcast by two unidentified men who, negroes said, rode among them and warned them the cotton would be burned before it reached the gin.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

REPORTING PROGRESS IN THE NEW TREATMENT OF HERNIA.

A few weeks ago I confessed here that I did not know the precise formula for the medicine injected in the ambulant treatment of hernia, and I warned readers not to submit to any such treatment with a secret or semi-secret formula, I apologized for introducing the method at all when I was not aware of the exact composition of the medicine injected. You see, I had been deceived about that. I relied upon the unquestionable professional standing of the doctor whose successful use of this method first came to my notice. I finally appealed to that doctor for the information, without which I could not recommend the treatment to the public. He did not give me the information. I don't know why, but I think he feared I might broadcast it and so spoil the market for his course of instruction to physicians in the method. But I have obtained the formula, or rather a formula which is proving satisfactory in the hands of good physicians I know, and I'll give the formula to any doctor who asks me for it and incloses stamped envelope bearing his address, but I'll not give it to any lay reader. The formula is very simple—any doctor can prepare it himself or have his pharmacist prepare it for him. Nothing secret or proprietary in it.

Any competent practitioner can give his patients the advantage of the ambulant treatment for hernia, at least in suitable cases. Not that one does not require instruction in the technic—on the contrary, such personal instruction by a physician skilled in the method is highly essential—but any physician skilled in the method will gladly teach his colleages on the terms customary for clinical instruction.

The injection of the medicine is only half of the treatment. The skilful and painstaking fitting and adjustment of the truss—which must be worn constantly throughout the course of injections—is the other half of the treatment. If this later part is slighted or bungled by the doctor, the attempt to cure the hernia is likely to fail.

HAWKINSVILLE MAN LAUDS RUSSELL'S "CONSERVATISM"

Governor Russell Friday was commended by W. W. Poole, Hawkinsville businessman, for his "conservatism displayed during the recent agitation from some quarters for a total cotton planting ban and in not attempting to force a seemingly useless and expensive extra session of the legislature.

"Your conservatism," Poole wired the governor, "displayed during the recent agitation from some quarters for a total cotton planting ban and in not attempting to force a seemingly useless and expensive extra session of the legislature is being highly commended, especially since a reaction against such legislation is apparently general. This is based on personal interviews with numbers of farmers from different sections who have already and are still daily selling their present cotton crop.

PLANS ARE DISCUSSED FOR BIG MEETING HERE

Plans for a monster mass meeting of Georgia farmers to be held in the state capitol, probably Tuesday, "for the purpose of reflecting the feeling of the farmers of the state directly into the office of the governor," were discussed in Atlanta Friday by Charles Stewart and Dr. R. A. Franklin, representatives from Coffee and Butts county, with Tom Linder, assistant to Commissioner of Agriculture of Agriculture Eugene Talmadge.

Linder said after the meeting that no definite decision had been reached. Franklin said he was confident the call would go out from the farm bloc formed at the recent special session after members of the steering committee, on which he and Stewart were named, confer with Commissioner Talmadge.

Talmadge, who addressed a Texas gathering of approximately 10,000 cotton farmers, is expected to return to Atlanta early this morning and to take charge of the mass meeting plans.

Representative Franklin conferred late Friday with Governor Russell, but there was no announcement from either as to the subject of the conference.

FARM HEAD TAKES ISSUE WITH LANE YOUNG'S VIEWS

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 11.—(AP)—E. L. Deal, executive secretary of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, today took issue with H. Lane Young, of Atlanta, chairman of the agricultural commission of the American Bankers' Association, on his views that the solution of the cotton crisis lies in a revolution of farm life and a return to "buggies and saddles."

"I interpret Mr. Young's idea to mean that the farmer must accept a lower standard of living," Mr. Deal said. "Fortunately the farmer is organized to the point where he, just as other groups have always done, is in position to demand a better standard. He will never be content to return to the 'buggy and saddle' age as long as others enjoy the luxuries and conveniences of modern life."

BILBO, CONNER TO CO-OPERATE IN SOUTHERN COTTON CRISIS

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 11.—(AP)—It appeared today that Governor T. G. Bilbo and Governor-elect Mike Conner would work together on the cotton question since Conner has volunteered his co-operation to Bilbo and the legislature "as a private citizen."

"My information is that the no-cotton plan is gaining favor rapidly with the state's cotton growers," Conner said, breaking his continued silence on the cotton subject. Governor Bilbo and the present legislature were re-elected by the people and they are still in office. I have no intention of usurping their duties. But as a private citizen, which I will be until January, I will gladly co-operate with them to obtain sane and reasonable cotton legislation.

"Many wish to know, however, what provision can be made to enable farmers to carry over their cotton or to hold an equity on it so they will benefit from any increase in price which may not immediately follow enactment of 'no-cotton' legislation."

AMERICAN SALE SCORED BY FOREIGN IMPORTERS

HAMBURG, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The American plan to sell in Europe about 1,000,000 bales of cotton on six to nine months credit is viewed with disfavor by cotton importers here.

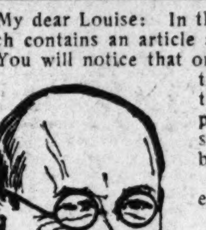
They declare legitimate trade will be throttled as German cotton mills will buy from the American farm board because of the credit.

Letters From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter

BY ROBERT QUILLEN

My dear Louise: In this mail I am sending you a copy of a magazine which contains an article about schools for girls.

You will notice that only a score of all the hundreds of such institutions in America really "count"—which means that these few are the only ones patronized by people who possess yachts and keep a string of saddle horses and eat in the presence of a butler.



ROBERT QUILLEN

The thing that will surprise you most, however, is the description of the schools.

People who depend too much on their imaginations picture these schools for rich girls, as they picture the homes of their parents, as gay and gilded palaces where everybody bathes in champagne, dresses with the help of a servant and makes glorified whoopee until daylight.

You will note that the picture is somewhat overdrawn.

In one of the most exclusive schools, the girls wear gingham frocks in the class room; in another they roast "hot dogs" at an open fire in the woods; and at several they aren't permitted to have "dates".

Most astonishing, however, is the old-fashioned method of character building common to them all.

In later life the girls may smoke cigarets, swill cocktails and mock all things sacred and decent, but here they are taught the old-time religion and trained to honor the simple, old-fashioned standards of chastity, modesty, truth and righteousness.

Think of multimillionaires, able to command the rarest and best, requiring their daughters to learn the common old virtues that Mrs. O'Grady teaches her Molly.

Does that give you a new conception of "swells"?

Our "best families," despite their millions, are pretty decent folk.

People who try to ape the "best families" by wearing the most exaggerated styles, making a big show, dissipating till all hours and trying to seem very sophisticated are not aping anybody but the vulgar and ill-bred rich who are trying to be somebody and don't know how.

Don't let the Sunday supplements fool you, my dear.

The chief distinction of the true aristocrats, made superior by generations of wealth, is their similarity to the decent poor.

You can tell gentle folk by the fact that no detail of their superior quality depends on the price of stocks. Love, DAD.

OFFICIALS CONFER ON MARTIAL RULE IN CHURCH DISPUTE

was seeking Dr. Heard's pastorate for himself, but said "I am going to stay here until the church gets a real pastor."

The strife resulted from Jeffers' public charge that Dr. Heard had engaged in unbecoming conduct while he occupied a pastorate at Big Spring, Texas.

Wednesday night a "vindication" meeting for Dr. Heard at the Baptist church resulted in a fight and the arrest of George Cox Jr. Jeffers headed a group of 500 men who marched to the jail and obtained Cox's release.

Cox's hearing was set for Thursday and, while waiting for proceedings to start, the evangelist was given permission to hold a prayer meeting on the lawn of the city hall, after Mayor H. J. Bosler had stipulated the meeting should be only a "moment of prayer."

Prays for Bolt.

Jeffers prayed for a bolt of lightning to strike the mayor and in the resultant confusion one of Jeffers' followers threw the mayor to the ground. He was subdued by police.

The mayor called on Governor Parnell for martial law. A detachment of troopers was sent here, but martial law was not declared.

Lieutenant James A. Puckett, second in command of the troops at Jonesboro, said today Captain Eldridge had telephoned Governor Parnell that "the situation cannot be solved under present measures. Martial law must be declared." Governor Parnell said later in Little Rock neither he nor Colonel Garrett had received a request for martial law from Captain Eldridge.

Mayor Bosler saw the situation with trepedition. He said while everything appeared quiet on the surface, "we haven't started to have trouble yet."

"Everything is calm enough in the daytime," he declared. "It is at night when the meetings are held that the situation becomes tense."

TROPICAL STORM MOVES TO YUCATAN

cemetery has been cleared for vehicular traffic.

Bodies were taken to the burial ground by motor truck.

First aid stations today presented a gruesome sight as the injured hobbled in or were carried on roughly constructed stretchers.

Government house was virtually undamaged, although the servants' quarters and the kitchen were demolished.

The office of the Belize Clarion was ruined.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—As the appalling story of the hurricane at Belize, British Honduras, reached the outside world in more detail tonight, estimates of the number of dead rose to 400.

Communication in the first hours after the disaster had been meager, but as the full measure of the storm began to be seen, Pan-American Airways at the British town said 400 there were killed, several hundred injured and half the homes swept away. Some earlier dispatches had set the dead at so small a figure as 150.

The storm that struck death in Belize meanwhile had moved toward Frontera, Mexico, while another disturbance, which killed at least two in San Juan, Porto Rico, was expected by the weather bureau here to pass not far from Port Au Prince, Haiti. Both were said to be of somewhat diminished intensity.

Expanded reports of the disaster met already promised prompt relief. American Vice Consul Ott at Belize told the state department the only known American dead were 10 priests. He did not name them, but said if an American naval vessel were near it could do much good. He stressed the need for medical aid.

Some time earlier the navy and the Red Cross, at the request of President Hoover, had dispatched a marine corps plane from Managua, Nicaragua, with $2,500 worth of medical supplies. Other planes were en route from Panama.

The gunboat Sacramento, which has little reserve medical or food stores aboard, was not very far away at Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua. The cruiser Rochester was ordered to pass through the Panama Canal from the Pacific to the Atlantic and stand by for orders.

Rear Admiral Arthur St. Clair Smith, aboard the Rochester, replied the ship would be at Colon tomorrow ready to head northward with doctors and medicines if needed.

For days residents of the tropical West Indies section have watched anxiously the swirl of hurricanes. Reports of the weather bureau upon the storms' courses were awaited avidly. Late Thursday Belize was struck by the full force of a ranting wind.

For hours communication was asunder, as was also the case in San Juan, reports trickled in first of heavy damage by the storm in San Juan, but later advices showed only two deaths there as its storm swept out to sea toward Santo Domingo.

Then into the United States began to pour tales of destruction and terror in the British settlement. Hourly they became more elaborate.

The Red Cross and three government departments—the White House, the navy, and the state department—turned attention to the errand of mercy.

The mine sweeper Swan was at Trujillo, Honduras, only a few hours from Belize, and it proceeded at once to the hurricane zone.

Other boats in Central American waters were held in readiness if needed.

The Red Cross transmitted to the American consul at Belize a sum of money for relief purposes and was prepared to supplement it if necessary.

The governor of British Honduras, in an early cable to London, advised that 50 persons were known dead there and "he feared the total will be larger." He said considerable damage had been done by the sea which swept in to flood the town under five to nine feet of water. He estimated propery damage at above $1,000,000.

Belize is the most important trading center on the Caribbean coast of Central America, dealing particularly in mahogany, logwood and chicle gum.

San Juan, the butt of tragic hurricanes in the past, escaped with less damage, although the weather bureau reported that a 100-mile wind swept over the island. Telephone and utility facilities were paralyzed, and the steamer Cerrito was swept on a reef by the heavy wind.

Reports were meager from the interior of the island, but it was believed the heaviest force of the wind had been felt in San Juan.

Information as to the situation at Belize, received at the state department, was immediately conveyed to the British embassy.

An offer by the United States government of any assistance it could render, was accepted by the embassy.

Acting in the emergency, Minister F. D. G. Osborne, charge d'affaires in the absence of Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay, communicated the information to London.

FAMILY OF GEORGIANS LIVING IN SAN JUAN

R. W. Riser, of Atlanta, general southern traffic agent of the Ocean Steamship Company, Friday night said that his daughter, Mrs. Helen Bacon; her husband, Devereaux Bacon, and their baby girl are in San Juan. Mr. Riser said he has not heard from his daughter and is worried for the safety of her family. General Estes, of Fort Screven, near Savannah, has a son in San Juan, he said. Mr. Riser and his family formerly lived in Savannah.

TEN JESUIT PRIESTS VICTIMS OF HURRICANE

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 11.—(AP)—A radio message to the Pan-American Airways from Belize, British Honduras, tonight said the following Americans were reported killed in the destruction of St. Joseph's College:

Rev. William Tracy, St. Louis, Mo.
Rev. William Ferris, St. Louis, Mo.
Rev. Bernard, New Buffalo, state not known.
Rev. Leo Rooney, Superior, Wis.
Alfred Baumeister, Cleveland, Ohio.
Richard Koch, St. Louis, Mo.
Richard Smith, Racine, Wis.
John Rodger, Reading, Pa.
Rev. Francis Kemphues, Cincinnati, Ohio.

In addition, Rev. Carlos Palacios, of Valencia, Spain, was reported dead. The priest was mentioned among the American citizens listed in the dispatch, but whether this was an error or indicated that he was a naturalized American, could not be ascertained.

SUIT OPENS FIGHT ON OIL SHUTDOWN

the petition and to grant a rehearing in a case decided several months ago against the Champlin Company, in which the Oklahoma proration laws were upheld.

In the event of favorable action on the injunction application, a situation probably unprecedented in the history of the country would result. Governor Murray, with the Oklahoma national guard at his command, has announced repeatedly he will ignore the orders of "inferior federal courts," and obey only the executive order of the president of the United States or mandates of the United States supreme court in case of conflict.

The Champlin suit is the first court challenge to the martial law program which also is in effect in the east Texas field, where troops are carrying out terms of the new Texas conservation law administered by the state railroad commission.

Meanwhile, representatives of the Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas oil regulatory commissions, oil importers and members of the oil states advisory committee considered recommendations of Thurman Hill, of the Kansas public service commission for solving the oil problem. He suggested that domestic production and imports be limited next week to 2,392,000 barrels daily, about 100,000 barrels under domestic demand, and be curtailed 10 per cent monthly thereafter until Hill's suggested price of $1.10 a barrel obtains for crude oil.

Hill urged that imports be limited to not more than 100,000 barrels daily. American Petroleum Institute figures show imports of crude and derivatives for the week ended September 5 totaled 260,714 daily. Before the Oklahoma and east Texas shutdowns domestic production was 2,490,423 daily, as the week ended August 1, and the latest figures show that during the shutdowns the daily average dropped to 1,736,007 barrels.

New Stage, Screen Programs At Atlanta Theaters Today

What is undoubtedly the most perfect production yet made with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell as the co-stars, opens its Atlanta run at the Fox theater this morning. It is "Merely Mary Ann," exquisite story of a poor little London slavey and an eccentric young composer. Never was a story better adapted to its players than this from the pen of Israel Zangwill to these two famous stars, and never were players more utterly suited to the roles.

There is one of the best selected supporting casts ever gathered together in the picture, especially notable for the work of Beryl Mercer, as the London landlady.

On the stage the Fox offers Fanchon & Marco's "Olympics" idea, which was created as a special honor to the twelfth international Olympiad, which is to be held in Los Angeles in 1932. There are many splendid principals and a particularly delightful group of Sunkist Beauties in the production.

Bill Tilden's second tennis feature is offered as an added attraction, while Conductor Enrico Leide and Organist Al Evans, to say nothing of the Fox concert orchestra, will contribute their customary delightful musical section of the program. Newsreel and short screen subjects complete the bill.

"NIGHT NURSE" AT GEORGIA, "OUR GANG" ON STAGE

Barbara Stanwyck, vivacious star of "Illicit," will be seen today at Keith's Georgia in "Night Nurse," the sensational screen version of Dora Macy's stirring novel by the same name.

Assisted by that Atlanta boy, Ben Lyon, that advancing star, Clark Gable, and the wise-cracking pep girl, Joan Blondell, Miss Stanwyck gives one of the best performances of her career as a night nurse who knows all about the secrets of those private rooms, the mysteries which happen in the dead of night, the scandals of neglected wives, those midnight transgressions and the emergency calls, and she brings them all to life in this thrilling story that only a nurse could tell.

On the stage is four acts of R. K. O. vaudeville. Vaudeville, headed by two of the former "Our Gang" kids, Scooter Lowry and Peggy Eames. This is something more than just a personal appearance, for these movie stars are clever, and in spite of the fact that they are quite young, they do a very entertaining act of song, dance and patter. William Edmunds, well known to vaudeville as well as drama, puts across his new farce titled "Taking a Movie Test." Elmer Cleve and his celebrated xylophone adds more fun when he gives his idea of "Just a Scotchman" and those "Fifth Avenue Comic Dancers." Wilson, Keppel and Betty, close another great stage attraction for the Georgia.

"THE MIRACLE WOMAN" OPENS TODAY AT CAPITOL

Barbara Stanwyck comes to the Capitol theater today in the frank Capra production, "The Miracle Woman." This is the combination that made "Ladies of Leisure," another Columbia picture in which Miss Stanwyck scored a distinct triumph.

"The Miracle Woman," adapted from a Broadway stage success by John Meehan and Robert Riskin, is the dramatic and romantic story of a girl who fooled everybody but herself! Virtue was her only sin because she allowed it to be exploited, but she smothered the murmurings of her guilty conscience until her love for a boy who thought she was all that was good and beautiful drove her to confess to the world that she was a liar and a cheat!

The cast includes David Manners, Sam Hardy, Beryl Mercer and others.

Southern Conference Officials, Coaches Assemble Here Today; Quest for Strongest Backfield Combination Continues at Tech

GRID OFFICIALS, COACHES HOLD MEETING HERE

Rules, Officiating Will Be Discussed Today and Sunday.

By Ralph McGill.

Southern conference football officials and coaches will meet in Atlanta today and Sunday in the second annual convention of the two associations. The Atlanta Athletic Club will be the scene of the meetings.

Representatives from each of the 23 coaching staffs in the conference are expected to be on hand, most of them being head coaches.

Practically every official who has been active in past seasons will be present for the two-day sessions. The officials begin the meeting this morning at 9:30 when their board of directors meets.

OPEN SESSIONS.

Saturday afternoon, Sunday morning and Sunday afternoon will offer open sessions for both coaches and officials.

A program has been arranged which thoroughly covers the field for both coaches and officials.

Following the morning meeting of the board of directors the officials will meet at a luncheon at noon.

Beginning at 2 o'clock there will be a joint meeting of coaches and officials. This will extend until 5:30 in the afternoon. A study of the rules and an open discussion of them will be had during this time.

EACH OFFICIAL.

Beginning at 7:30 in the evening there will be an open discussion of the duties of each official with the various discussions being led by designated officials. Everett Strupper will discuss the referee. Walter Powell will present the problems of the umpire. Richard Daniels will talk on the linesman, and Battle Bagley will handle the field judge's activities.

Everett Strupper, former Tech star, and Walter Powell, former star player and coach in the west, are both well-known Atlanta businessmen. Others on the program are from out of the city.

PHASES OF FOOTBALL.

On Sunday morning another program will be offered. Moon Ducote will discuss the shift and running plays from the shift. The forward pass will be handled by W. Dixon Foster.

Kicks, illegal and legal, will be discussed by L. S. Erwin. A. R. Hutchens, secretary of the officials' association, will talk on the conduct of players. Other phases of the game will be discussed by other officials.

The meeting last fall was unusually successful. The officials' association has come to mean a great deal. It has done much toward standardizing officiating and the handling of games.

BETTER UNDERSTANDING.

The joint meetings have brought about a better understanding between coaches and officials. The meetings are doing much toward making for better southern football.

Walter Powell, a veteran official and the southern officials chosen representative for the Rose Bowl game New Year's Day, has been at work in Atlanta arranging for the meeting.

Dan McGugin, Wallace Wade, Chet Wynne, Frank Thomas, Harry Gammage, Curly Byrd and other well-known coaches are expected to attend. Harry Mehre, of Georgia, and Coach Alexander, of Tech, will attend with their respective staffs.

Franke To Officiate In Eight Grid Games

AUBURN, Ala., Sept. 11.—Major Gustav H. Franke, commandant of the R. O. T. C. unit at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, will officiate in eight of the leading football games in the south during the 1931 season.

Major Franke, who is starting his first year as commandant at Auburn, starred at end on the Army eleven for four years, graduating in 1911. After a term in the regular army, he returned to West Point as assistant to Charles Daly, head coach, in 1915 and 1916.

He has been stationed at Fort McPherson, Ga., for the past four years, and has rapidly forged to the front as one of the most competent football officials in the United States. He officiated in the midwest before being transferred to Fort McPherson.

The games in which Major Franke will officiate this fall are:

Oct. 3—Wofford-Birmingham-Southern at Birmingham.
Oct. 16—Clemson-Citadel at Florence, S. C.
Oct. 17—Tulane-Vanderbilt at Nashville, Tennessee.
Oct. 31—L. S. U.-Suwanee at Baton Rouge, Louisiana.
Nov. 7—Maryland-Vanderbilt at Nashville, Tennessee.
Nov. 14—Georgia-Tulane at Athens, Ga.
Nov. 26—Oglethorpe-Mercer at Atlanta.
Nov. 28—Tulane-L. S. U. at New Orleans, Louisiana.

G. M. A. Elevens Scrimmage Today

Georgia Military Academy's first football scrimmage of the year will be held this morning on the campus at College Park. It will be a one-hour "game" between varsity candidates and the scrubs.

The team returned from North Carolina last Saturday afternoon and have been working hard all week in preparation for the affair this morning.

Coaches M. C. Paget, C. M. McQuarrie and Sam Burbage will stop the scrimmage from time to time to make suggestions and point out plays that should be used in the various formations.

G. M. A. will open Atlanta's annual football season with a game Thursday night, September 24, against the Notre Dame Preps, of Chattanooga. It will be played at Spiller field and will be followed by Boys' High and Madison, Friday night and Tech High-Spartanburg on Saturday night.

If all the words that will be spoken at the Atlanta Athletic Club today were to be laid end on end they would girdle the world three times and still have enough left over for an unabridged dictionary.

The coaches and the officials of the Southern Conference meet today. And the fellows who have no chances to second-guess during the season will be there today doing so with great gusto.

They are great talkers—coaches and officials. They can talk through the night as a Pullman car rocks on toward some foreign field for a game. They can sit in a smoke-filled hotel room until the gray of dawn begins to fill the sky. And then regretfully retire.

An expert psychiatrist would probably find that all football writers and coaches are a bit punch drunk after a few seasons in the game. There is a strain about the season, a constant whipping up of the emotions, a switch from the heights to the depths, that does something to the nervous system and makes for garrulity. The officials escape it. But the football writers and coaches are all a bit punch drunk once the season gets going.

They are great fellows, these coaches. They are doing more good for the humble cause of mankind than any other men connected with the whole gamut of sports. The football coaches have no Landis to watch them, no investigators to probe their efforts, and yet no coach has ever been connected with a scandal such as baseball has been subjected to in the past.

The coaches have done a great work and are still doing one. Officials have also kept their records clean. The whole fabric of football is pretty fine. Or am I just punch drunk, too?

MORE ROCKNE STORIES.

Wherever Notre Dame men meet there are stories of Knute Rockne—there always will be—and football will be richer because of them, as it was richer because of the man's presence.

At Auburn Thursday night Roger Kiley was telling stories of Jimmy Crowley who, more than any of all the witty Irishmen that Rockne coached, had some of the Dane's same brilliant wit.

"Crowley was probably the only one who could kid Rockne," said Kiley. "I'll never forget one year he came to Rock and said, 'I've got a great player for you, Rock.'

"'Is he fast?' asked Rockne.

"'A hundred yards in ten seconds,' said Crowley.

"'Can he pass?' queried the Rock.

"'Hit a dime at twenty yards,' said Crowley.

"'How's his footwork?'

"'Perfect; he's got a great dodge.'

"'Is he as good as you, Jim?' asked Rockne, excited by now.

"'Well, not as good as me, Rock, but still a great man,' said Crowley.

"Crowley visited me in Chicago once," said Kiley. "I was teaching commercial law to some graduate students. I told Crowley to come on out and sit in until the hour was over.

"'I'll speak to them,' he told me.

"And do you know he did it. He was younger by several years than most of the class. He had been out of Notre Dame but a short time. And yet he stood up there and made them a speech on the advantages of a college education. Not only did he make it but he knocked them out of their seats with it. I had students ask me about it months later."

Crowley was at Athens for a while. And there is a story they tell of a trip he made to Atlanta.

Crowley passed a small country school house. He stopped his car, went in, introduced himself as one of the school commissioners, made a speech to the children, telling them to respect their teacher, their nation and their flag. The teacher, a new one, was very grateful and probably doesn't know to this day that the "commissioner" was a young man having his joke.

Crowley has had a great success at Michigan State. His team tied Michigan last season, 0 and 0. Harry Mehre wired Crowley congratulations. "Thanks, but can you imagine me not scoring?" wired Crowley.

SPEAKING OF OVEREMPHASIS.

Something should be done about the mistreatment which the young players in golf are subjected to by enthusiastic publicists.

Winners of small tournaments are given publicity which leaves nothing to be said if they should happily go on in the future and win the national or the open.

Bobby Jones so dominated the game with a faultless style and temperament that any flash of form by a youngster immediately brings him into comparison with Jones. The gushes of publicity, the gigantic welcomes and the attendant froth, do more harm to the young golfer than any other agent.

The young players should be the first to resent it. They become self-conscious, begin to worry about a game or style they haven't got and develop "nerves." There is no telling just how many good young players have been handicapped by being drowned in a flood of superlatives after winning some unimportant tournament.

Jones had his game before anyone heralded it widely to the world. And when it was heralded no one would believe it. He had to show them. He had it so firmly nothing could alter it.

But now, alack and alas, every youngster who enters a city, state or sectional tournament is compared with Jones if he survives the first round. The victory of Francis Ouimet will probably have a salutary effect.

GOOD BYE, GOOD BYE.

The Atlanta Crackers will fold up their tents tonight and depart to return no more. The season ends for the Crackers Sunday in Chattanooga, where they began it with bright hopes in April.

In the spring the Cracker club was the favored team. It ended as one of the worst teams ever assembled under the city's banners.

No fault is assigned to Johnny Dobbs, the manager. He battled breaks in the luck and other handicaps which made his efforts largely null and void. He returns next spring for the third and final year of his contract.

There were a number of fine fellows on the 1931 Cracker club. But the fans will be glad to see it go.

Prospects for 1932 appear brighter now. They always do in the fall. Cracker directors, however, seem determined to make a showing next season.

Y-CHURCH NINES PLAY FOR TITLE THIS AFTERNOON

Series Involving Pennant Winners in 5 Leagues To Start Today.

Two games in the series to decide the best of the five pennant winning clubs in the leagues sponsored by the Y-Church A. A., will feature play among the amateur baseball teams of the city today. The battle to determine the last of the five eligibles will also be fought this afternoon.

On the Decatur High school diamond, Pattillo Memorial, winners of the Fulton league race, will meet Kirkwood Baptist, Piedmont league champions; while the Sewanee league leaders, Egan Park Baptist, will battle the Georgia league winners, College Park Baptist, at Fairburn.

Boethean class, of Capitol View Presbyterian, and Northwest Atlanta will meet at 2 o'clock to break the tie for first place in the last half of the Dixie league race. Should Boethean win, a second game will be played for the championship as Northwest Atlanta captured first half honors.

HURLERS' DUEL.

In the Pattillo Memorial-Kirkwood Baptist game, two of the best pitchers of the city will clash. Carter, formerly of the Georgia-Alabama league, will be on the mound for Kirkwood, with Talley, ace of the Fulton league, hurling for Pattillo. This game will start promptly at 3 o'clock.

With both clubs boasting a strong array of batsmen, the College Park Baptist-Egan Park Baptist setto will force the opposing hurlers to use all their wiles, but the rival managers have drawn the best hurlers from their loops in an effort to stay the attacks of the hard hitters. Whitehead or Casey will hurl for College Park, and will be opposed by Coursey or McMullen. This game will also start at 3 o'clock.

PLAY AT CLARK.

Cole Cooper or Krider will oppose Seagraves or Fuller in the Boethean Class-Northwest Atlanta game, which is scheduled for the Clark University diamond, located on the Federal Prison car line. As this game may well decide the Dixie league winner, a large crowd is certain to attend. The game will start at 2 o'clock, and a second game if needed, will follow immediately.

The winners in each league will be presented with loving cups at the annual banquet at the Peachtree Arcade Monday night, September 28, and the series winner will take over the custody of the Trammell Scott trophy, now held by Inman Park Baptist, which must be won three times for permanent ownership.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE.

Kirkwood Baptist, Piedmont League, vs. Pattillo Memorial, Fulton league. (Decatur High diamond, at 3 p. m.)
Egan Park Baptist, Sewanee league, vs. College Park Baptist, Georgia league. (At Fairburn, 3 p. m.)
Boethean Class vs. Northwest Atlanta. (At Clark University, 2 p. m. Dixie championship.)

Whittier Mills To Meet Southern.

Southern Railway will play Whittier Mills the one remaining game in the City league schedule at Almand Park this afternono. If Whittier wins they will be victors in both the first and second halves of the City league race and will be entitled to enter the city series as representatives of the City league.

They recently became first-half champions by defeating City Hall two games.

American League Pennant at Stake.

Baseball teams of Grace Methodist and Gordon Street Baptist tied for leadership in the American league of the Sunday School Athletic Association, meet today to decide the American league pennant winner. The winner of this game will play Jefferson Street Methodist, National league pennant winner, for the Sunday School Athletic Association championship.

Johnson, Grace pitcher, is the league's leading moundsmen, having won five and lost none, while Whitney, Gordon Street ace, ranks second, having won seven and lost only one.

The game is scheduled at 3 p. m. on the northeast Piedmont park diamond.

Miss Ravior Wins Another Marathon

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Margaret Ravior, of Philadelphia, today won the Canadian national exhibition three-mile swim by a margin of 20 yards over Mrs. Evelyn Armstrong, of Detroit.

Miss Ravior, who won the 10-mile swim for women here two weeks ago, swam along on even terms with Leah Riley, of Keansburg, N. J., for three-quarters of the way. Miss Riley finished third.

Miss Ravior's time was 1 hour, 31 minutes, 43 3-5 seconds.

PITCHERS RELEASED.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The New York Yankees today announced the outright release of Pitchers Roy Sherid and Lou McEvoy to the St. Paul club of the American Association as part payment for second baseman Jack "Eno" Saltzgaver. The latter will report to the Yankees next spring.

Veteran

Refuting the assertion of tennis experts that he is primarily a doubles player, George Lott (above), now of Philadelphia, has been playing brilliantly at Forest Hills this week in the national singles championship. Crushing John Doeg, the defending champion, in straight sets Friday, Lott advanced to the final round in which he will meet Ellsworth Vines, California youngster, today.

CRACKERS WIN AS LEE TRIPLES

Blow Scores Two Men in Ninth To Beat Pels, 4 to 3.

By Roy White.

Atlanta's final baseball game of the season for Spiller field will be played at 2:30 o'clock in the close of a four-game series with New Orleans. Following today's game, the Crackers move on to Chattanooga, where the curtain will close up the 1931 schedule. Ladies will be admitted free again today. The Crackers won Friday night's game, 4-3.

Although the season has not been one of the best, Atlanta's revamped team is making a determined effort to finish in the first division and much depends upon the remaining two games with the Pels and Lookouts. A victory today and Sunday will turn the trick.

In climbing back toward the first division the Crackers really earned the three straight victories over New Orleans. Every game was a result of good pitching and consistent hitting.

Friday's game was a pitcher's battle between Paul Gregory and "Lefty" Perrin, of the Pels. Both gave up five hits but the Crackers took advantage of their opportunities and won. Carlyle's triple and a passed ball scored the first run in the second inning. Gregory's walk and Barnes' triple in the fifth added another and the climax came in the ninth when Hal Lee, pinch-hitting for Autry in the ninth, tripled to the scoreboard to score Martin and Carlyle with the tying and winning runs.

Rose's home run gave New Orleans its first marker in the second. Connatser's single and Polite's double added another in the sixth and Rose's triple and Chapman's error gave the Pels another in the ninth.

An extra base hit figured in each of the seven scores.

LOTT TO MEET VINES IN FINAL FOR NET TITLE

Californian Superb in Rally Against Perry. Lott Easy Victor.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 11 (AP)—Two sets down at one time, S. Ellsworth Vines Jr., lanky Pasadena youngster, proved his fighting heart today by coming back to defeat Frederick J. Perry, British ace, and enter the finals of the golden jubilee national tennis tournament.

The 19-year-old coast star tomorrow will have his chance at the title relinquished today by John Hope Doeg, the Newark left-hander, who took a crushing beating from George Lott Jr., of Philadelphia, in the other semi-final, 7-5, 6-3, 6-0.

Vines, playing erratically, looked like anything but a future champion as he dropped the first two sets to the debonair Perry, but he recovered himself to play good tennis in the third and then became a whirlwind toward the last. The final score was 4-6, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

CROWD ROARS.

The final set saw the crowd of 12,000 in a constant uproar as Vines, increasing his pace, served with terrific speed and drove one placement after another by the wilting Perry. He ran up a lead of 5-1 in games before Perry checked the onslaught and won a pair. Then the coast stripling sent over a series of sensational shots that broke Perry's service and closed the match.

This spectacular struggle recompensed the gallery for Doeg's disappointing showing against Lott. Apparently upset by his hard-earned victory over Frank Shields yesterday, the Newark southpaw gave the Philadelphian but feeble opposition after the opening set. He could not hold even his famed cannonball service against the calm, sure-stroking Lott. He did not score a single placement in the final set as Lott put on the finishing touches.

Even before his impressive victory over Doeg, Lott predicted he would be the next champion. He is a veteran of international play, having been a member of this country's Davis cup team the last four years. Vines, despite his youth and comparative inexperience, has been cocksure all week, and they way he turned back Perry today did nothing to dent his confidence.

Victor over Vines in the international team matches last week, Perry gave every indication he would repeat as he ran off the first two sets. He was playing a steady, conservative game from the baseline and letting the American drivie them out. Vines looked his worst in the second set, when he lost his service twice and drove 21 balls out of bounds.

The turning point came in the fifth game of the third set when, after each had won two games on service, Vines suddenly began getting his fierce drives in the court and broke Perry's delivery. Gaining confidence, he continued to shoot them past the Englishman with all his steam and ran out the set.

VINES UNBEATABLE.

Coming back after the intermission, Vines was unbeatable. He broke Perry's service in the seventh game of the fourth set with three smashing placements to get all the advantage he needed to square the match.

The tip-off on the closing set came in the first game. Perry, serving first, saw four balls whiz back past him so fast he could not get his racket near them. The Englishman did not have a chance. Vines smashing his way to victory in five of the first six games and then, after a slight let-up, putting on full steam again to crush Perry's last hope.

Perry plainly was out of sorts toward the last, shaking his head and registering displeasure at the linesmen's decisions.

A recapitulation of the match disclosed that Vines scored 11 service aces to Perry's four; scored 27 placements to 21; made 59 outs to Perry's 45, netted 57 times to Perty's 58 and committed six double faults to two for Perry.

Youngster

The great promise shown by Ellsworth Vines (above), Pasadena youth, last season, has come to full bloom this summer. Climaxing a series of victories over America's ranking players in the big turf fixtures of the eastern tournament season, the Californian stands today on the threshold of a national championship. George Lott will be his opponent this afternoon.

TWENTY GRAND TO RACE TODAY

Feeble Opposition Seen for Whitney Colt in Lawrence Realization.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Only the mere gallop of a mile and five furlongs today appeared to stand between Mrs. Payne Whitney's Twenty Grand and another important three-year-old stake victory.

The required gallop is scheduled for tomorrow at Belmont Park under the title of the Lawrence Realization. Three other colts were named today to oppose the turf king. Two of them—the Wheatley stable's Blenheim and the Belair stud's Sir Ashley—are trained by Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, while the third will be Mrs. Katherine E. Hitt's Sun Meadow.

Twenty Grand will be asked to pack the top weight of 126 pounds. The Greentree ace has met all three of his rivals in separate races, but Blenheim is the only one that has come anywhere near the champion's flying hoofs.

McCann May Coach Miami Grid Team

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 11.—(AP)—The Miami Daily News announces Tommy McCann, athletic coach at Plant High, Tampa, has been offered the mentor's post at the University of Miami, succeeding Ernie Brett.

McCann was coach at Miami High school in 1926 and 1927 and assistant coach at the University of Miami in 1928 and 1929.

A committee named to select a Hurricane coach received assurance from McCann, the paper said, that he will accept the job if he can get a release from his contract to guide Plant High's athletic teams through the coming year.

McCann was here Monday to discuss the proposition with committee members, returning to Tampa the next day to take up the matter of release from his contract there.

McCann is a graduate of the University of Illinois, where he played football.

BALL CARRIERS ARE PROMISING, BUT UNCERTAIN

Barron and Hart Appear Smoothest Runners. Flowers Best Kicker.

By Jimmy Jones.

"They're still mighty green but they're working hard."

That was Coach Alexander's concise comment on his Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets who perspired through their paces yesterday at the Rose Bowl.

Today will conclude the first week of practice for the 1931 Engineers and a conservative estimate from the Tech staff is summed up in the statement that they are making pretty good progress for a squad with such a lavish spread of sophomore material.

The Tech coaches are still going ahead with the quest for the best backfield combination—one that carries enough versatility to block, pass and run with the ball. There was a time when everyone knew what the Tech backfield would be in July for there were men of proved and outstanding ability at every post.

TASK AHEAD.

But now the task is to pick the best men possible from a layout of promising, but uncertain, ball carriers.

A rough guess on the two best balanced backfields would be about as follows: (1) McArthur, quarter; Barron and Davis, halves, and Black full; (2) Peeler, quarter; Hart and Flowers, halves, and Cherry, full.

Of the above men, Flowers is the best kicker, McArthur the best passer. Peeler and Davis, sophomores, both have ability as blockers, while Barron and Hart probably are the best runners.

The big trouble is finding a triple threat. Flowers, for example, is a fine kicker, but is not an outstanding runner or passer.

HARD TO FIND.

These individual combinations are easy enough to talk about but hard to find. Bobby Dobb, that determined young man, absolutely refuses to be discouraged about his passers. He had Flowers throwing a few yesterday. Young Galloway has been groomed extensively in that direction, too.

Just how much importance is being placed on developing a passer was indicated again yesterday when a pass drill was staged, with the defense tackling the receivers. It was the nearest approach to a scrimmage that has been seen at the Flats as the runners actually were brought to earth. There wasn't much of it, but enough to get the boys used to being hit.

With the dearth of triple-threat men around there is nothing for the Tech coaches to do but go ahead and juggle what backfield material they have until they can get a quartet that clicks collectively on the things the individuals lack.

RUNNERS PLENTIFUL.

There will be no lack of shifty runners, however. Jap Hart and Barron are pretty runners to watch. Young Tom Peeler has plenty of drive through the line, while Wink Davis is another loose-hipped lad. The lack of weight plainly must be made up in speed and deception in the running attack. While Tech's plays are designed more for power, they will go with the right kind of blocking and plenty of speed and drive on the part of the ball-carriers.

Davis is showing that he can pick his holes and the boy is fast. He may come around and if he does, he will help, for he also has a fine competitive spirit.

Harry Milligan, who looked good as a freshman fullback in 1928, has announced his intention of re-entering school. He was hurt in his first year and did not return. He prepped at McCallie in Chattanooga. It is hard to tell what a man who has been out of school will do, however.

LINE UNCERTAIN.

The Tech line is almost as hard to figure as the backfield. Jack Cannon and Coach Alex are working hard on it. To date, Goldsmith and Lackey seem to be the outstanding ends, with Jimmy Slocum, a sophomore, coming along fast.

Big Ike Farmer's presence at tackle will add some weight. Casey Jones, Gardner, Tharpe and Cain are new men who may turn out to be a quartet of steady performers.

The Tech coaches are in no hurry about it all. They must take their time and observe their men closely. The team may not take on any definite form until after the first game. It certainly will not until after a number of scrimmages have been held, and the boys have been tested in actual battle.

Tarheels Work Hard To Develop Air Game

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Sept. 11.—The University of North Carolina Tarheels may wage much of their 1931 grid wars in the air, it appears. The first work Head Coach Chuck Collins prescribed, in fact, was pass receiving.

The squad of three-score hopefuls started that when Collins began twice-daily workouts Tuesday morning, and every practice since has included a share of passing and receiving.

The Tarheels will be missing Ward, Maguer, Maus and other expert marksmen of recent years, but there are several other youngsters who may develop into creditable passers.

Vandy Grid Stars Return for Practice

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 11.—Most of the Vanderbilt football players who were reported as not coming back, are returning. Tex Leyendecker, big tackle, will play this fall. One man, Jim Beasley, a lineman, may be missing. But those counted on most are back in harness. The Commodores will begin contact work this week.

Crackers in Final Home Stand Today

The baseball season of 1931, which opened with such high hopes and glowing promise, comes to an undramatic close for the Crackers Sunday with a single game in Chattanooga. The battle with the Pelicans at Spiller field this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock marks the final home stand of the year for the Dobbsmen.

Heads-up baseball in these last two contests may yet enable the team, widely heralded as probable pennant winners before the season opened, to avoid the ignominy of finishing in the second division. The Lookouts are clinging to fourth place by the skin of their teeth, and a determined effort by the Crackers may be sufficient to dislodge them.

Three Backfield Combinations Tested by Mehre

ALBANY YOUTH STARS AT HALF FOR BULLDOGS

Jodie White Promoted To Varsity; Secret Practice Starts Monday.

By Al Smith.

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 11.—Young Jodie Whire, who the home town folks at Albany used to say would beat Jack Roberts out at fullback, seemingly has impressed Harry Mehre with his play at the left halfback post, to which he was shifted Monday, for he was running signals with the so-called first team this afternoon.

A good passer and a capable punter, Whire combines those functions with a ball-carrying ability that is second to none on the Bulldog squad, or so his performances as a freshman and during spring practice indicate. He is a hard driver when toting the pigskin and can hit the line or carry the ball around end with equal ease, and in addition to offensive work, Whire is a demon on defense and a good man to back up the line.

Three varieties of backfields ran signals with the first three teams today. Speed was the big thing in one backfield, power the important one in another, and another was a pony backfield of shifty young men. Sully Sullivan, Buster Mott, Jobie Whire and Jack Roberts were the power backfield; Tommy Moran, Sam Brown, Homer Key and Lloyd Gilmore the pony backs; and Leroy Young, Spurgeon Chandler, Marion Gaston and Jim Stoinoff represented the speed element.

WATCH OUT, "REDS."

Jim Patterson and Tiger Bennett, who have been running mates at guard for two years, have served notice to the two "Reds," Leathers and Maddox, that they haven't the first string guard positions cinched by any means. Jim and Tiger have been given the call over the two Reds in signal practice lately, which may or may not mean anything. The first scrimmage ought to show how things stand.

Carter Townsend, sophomore tackle, is another young man that will bear watching. Townsend is big, quick on his feet and takes tackle playing seriously. Bobby Rose and Jim Hamrick, watch your step.

Clad in full battle array—padded pants, shoulder pads, and all—the Bulldogs worked twice today, devoting all their time in the morning workout to dummy scrimmage. Blocking and other phases of defensive play were the main dish served the backs this afternoon, while the guards and tackles were given special drills by Line Coach Ted Twomey.

AH, HA! CATFISH.

The ends came in for a good workout, with Coach Chick Shiver making them get a little practice in running down under punts. Catfish Smith acted as safety man in the ends' workout. As a result the Catfish has an increased respect for the lad who receives the other team's punts.

Today saw the last of the Bulldogs' morning workouts, as school opens Monday and Saturday morning will be taken up with preliminary registration. The only workout tomorrow will be at 3 o'clock, with a lecture immediately preceding it.

Five hundred "Red Caps"—freshmen to you—will watch "their" Bulldogs cavort Saturday afternoon for the last time except during regular games. Secret practice will begin Monday and only a privileged few will be allowed to watch the Bulldogs. It is Georgia custom that all freshmen watch the football practice immediately preceding the opening of school.

Larry Gilbert Speaks Mind on Dixie Series

Pel Manager Builds Team for 1932, Thinks Barons Have Good Chance.

By Jimmy Jones.

LARRY GILBERT, whose New Orleans Pelicans have figured in the Dixie series three times during his nine years at the helm of the club, is devoting the remaining days of the Southern league season of 1931 to building a structure for a stronger team in the Crescent City next year and reflecting over the chances of Clyde Milan's Birmingham Barons to cop the duke over Houston's Buffaloes.

And Larry, whose teams made three futile invasions of the Lone Star state, admits that he would like very, very much to see Milan's boys win out this time. In all the years that the Southern champs have been playing the Texas champs, only Bert Niehoff's Mobile club of 1922 and Johnnie Dobbs' Birmingham team of 1929 have succeeded in outwitting the Longhorns. The other teams have gone out there, played some remarkably close games that usually were lost somehow and returned empty-handed excepting a few souvenir postcards of the Alamo and Ma Ferguson.

Tales of a Wayside Tee.

Billy Burke faces a great chance to take a long jump ahead of the field at Providence next week when the P. G. A. party gets under way.

The P. G. A. party means the professional match play championship of the country and is one of the hardest of all the titles to win. Gene Sarazen is the only golfer who ever won the United States open and the P. G. A. crown the same year—that year being 1922. Billy Burke now faces this big chance and from the way he is hitting the ball he will be something to stop. He has already proved his place.

Burke's ability to step out in his first big test after winning the United States open and lead a crack field by five strokes is proof enough that he belongs at the top. This happened in the Glens Falls open where the competition was high-class all the way.

Burke is also a fine match play golfer. He has proved this more than once in big matches through the winter season of Florida. But there can be no slipping at Providence next week where such stars as Tommy Armour, Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Johnny Farrell, Ed Dudley and others will be on the firing line.

In the Spotlight.

Burke has two big chances within a week to reap additional glory. In addition to the P. G. A. scramble Burke faces a match with Bobby Jones at Round Hill a week from this next Sunday.

It will be a four-ball battle but naturally the main interest will be in a comparison of Burke and Bobby Jones before a big gallery.

The champion's runaway victory at Glens Falls in a 72-hole battle has lifted him still higher and has helped to prove that instead of being a one-week champion he is one of the leading stars of many years.

Armour's Hard Fight.

This P. G. A. party at Providence will have more stars than any championship has known for a long time. There will be Tommy Armour, British open champion, defending his P. G. A. crown. There will be Billy Burke, United States open champion. There will be Walter Hagen, Canadian open champion. There will be Ed Dudley, western open champion. There will be such stars as Gene Sarazen, Johnny Farrell, Willie MacFarlane, Wiffy Cox, north and south champion, and a flock of others well known from San Francisco to St. Andrews, Scotland.

On Monday the field plays 36 holes and the 32 low qualifiers then start out for match play on Tuesday. Each of these matches will be at 36 holes. From the list shown above it is easy to see the hard job Tommy Armour faces in defending his title against such talent.

It so happens that Armour is a star at match play—but so are Burke, Diegel, Sarazen and Hagen, to mention only a few.

Hagen's Chances.

One of the most interesting of all entries in this championship will be Walter Hagen. Hagen came bounding back in great shape this year. His play in the Ryder cup matches at Scioto was superb. He played well all through the United States open. And a trifle later he went on to win the Canadian open from a field of class, shooting a 69 in the play-off against Percy Allis.

Hagen is one of the greatest match play stars that ever lived. His feat of winning the P. G. A. four years in succession was one of the most astonishing accomplishments that golf has known. He started in 1924 and won twenty consecutive matches against the finest golfers of the world through 1927.

In a game that carries the uncertainties of golf, this achievement through a four-year span must take its place among the outstanding features of the ancient game.

THIS year, however, Larry is inclined to give the Barons a chance.

"It will be a short series and the team that plays smart baseball and gets smart pitching will probably win it," says Gilbert.

Like Milan himself, Gilbert is inclined to think that young Dizzy Dean is the big difference between the two clubs. Dean is one of these souls whose arm is as elastic as his imagination but if the Barons should manage to beat the raucous right-hander just once, they would have a fine chance at breezing under the wire. Milan is afraid Dean's supreme ego on the mound and the large amount of notoriety he has received may overawe his boys and Gilbert agrees there is something to this psychological angle in such a series.

Gilbert, like most baseball managers, gives Dean credit for being a great pitcher.

"The fellow must be to do the things he does and strike out so many men," Larry declared.

WHAT A NERVE!

The Pelican manager mentioned the incident where Dean purposely passed three Fort Worth batters with two out and a five-run lead to get at a certain Fort Worth player with whom he had had difficulties and struck him out. After the third strike, Dean gave him the old Bronx.

"You're a great hitter, ain't you?" Mr. Dean sneered with biting contempt in his voice.

Larry Gilbert likes the team play of the Barons. He likes their speed afield. And he is simply foolish about the double play combination of Bancroft and Shine Cortazzo.

"I'd like to have those boys on my club," said Larry wistfully. He is inclined to think that Bob Hasty and Jimmy Walkup will have the best chance against the Buffs. The latter is an ex-Texas leaguer himself and should know something of the hitters.

THREE FAILURES.

Gilbert's New Orleans teams represented the Southern in the Dixie series of 1923, 1926 and 1927. The clubs he met were Fort Worth, Dallas and Wichita Falls. The latter had the strongest club of the three, Gilbert said, and made his boys look badly.

But Gilbert derives a certain amount of cheer at looking back over the years and pointing out that most of the games were close and many decided by one-run margins. He mentioned the fine showing the Crackers made against the Fort Worth Cats in 1925. He thinks, however, that the Barons will have to play better ball than they are playing now to win.

"We took five out of six from them but they showed signs of coming back to form against Atlanta," he stated. To Gilbert, as well as to others, the Barons are a most surprising ball club. They seem to be capable of winning close games behind their pitchers.

BAD ABOUT MOORE.

Gilbert sees in the Barons' loss of Scrappy Moore, crack ball hawk, a parallel to the breaks he got one year when he lost Mike Cvengros, his craftiest pitcher, and Ray Gardner, star shortstop, just before going west. He thinks, however, that Abernathy, hard-hitting utlity man whom Milan may use at the post, and Wally French should atone in part for the loss.

Larry rates Art Weis the class of the Baron fly chasers at present. The Barons will hit and field on a par with the Texans, he believes, and the deciding factor in the series will be in the pitching — maybe Mr. Dean's pitching.

About his team for 1932, Gilbert was quite commentative.

"We've gotta have a lot of bolstering in all departments. Lind, Knothe and Harrington are a great trio of defensive infielders but are a little short on punch. Bruce Connatser goes to Cleveland. He may stick if he is given enough time, although he is not an impressive looking man at first sight. Bean, one of our best pitchers, goes back to Cleveland and I expect him to stick. That leaves only Fred Johnson and Gliatto, and the chances are the latter may be lost in the draft."

LACK OF PUNCH.

Lack of punch cost the Pels a first division berth this year, says Gilbert, and he called attention to the fact that the entire club had hit only 21 home runs, whereas Fred Eichrodt alone drove in more runs last year than all his outfielders have been able to punch across this year.

Failure of three pitchers—Roy, Underhill and Price—to win over 10 games among them also hurt. Luckey, a catcher, has come though only moderately.

By way of remedying things, Gilbert is experimenting with Polite (pronounced Poleete) a New Orleans sandlotter, in the outfield. He thinks Perrin, a young left-hander, and Clay Bryant, a boy with lots of smoke, will help his staff next year.

"But the thing we must have and are going to get is more batting power," Larry concluded.

Dawson High Faces Tough Grid Schedule

DAWSON, Ga., Sept. 11.—Coach Salter, of Dawson High's football eleven, today announced a difficult schedule for the coming season as follows:

September 25, Dawson vs. Montezuma, in Dawson; October 2, Dawson vs. Americus, in Americus; October 9, Dawson vs. Cuthbert, in Cuthbert; October 16, Dawson vs. Eufaula, in Eufaula; October 23, Dawson vs. Americus, in Dawson; October 30, open date; November 6, Dawson vs. Montezuma, in Montezuma; November 13, Dawson vs. Columbus, in Columbus; November 20, Dawson vs. Cuthbert, in Dawson.

Old-Time Fight Star Passes in England

LONDON, Sept. 11.— (AP) —Jim Smith, one of the greatest of the old-time bare-knuckle prize fighters, and twice the champion of England, died today, aged 68.

His greatest battle was in 1887 when he fought the American Jake Kilrain, for $10,000 and the championship of the world. They went 106 rounds on an island in the river Seine, in France, but darkness fell and they agreed to call it a draw.

ROBBIE PLANS TO SCRIMMAGE PETRELS TODAY

Linesmen Get Special Attention; Claud Herrin Likely Quarterback.

By Jack Troy.

Paradoxical as it may seem, Coach Harry Robertson by adhering strictly to schedule yesterday, surprised onlookers and Oglethorpe football players alike, so unexpected have been many of his previous actions at Hermance field during the current training period.

The schedule called for a comparatively light workout, and after what Coach Robertson considered as such, he sent in the squad. Not, however, until the boys had had the usual calisthenics, punting, passing, practice in tackling and clipping the dummy, open field tackling, work on the bucking machine, and a headgear session for the linesmen in taking men out. Signal drill wound up the session.

Coach Robertson will show no such mercy today, however, as he plans to wind up the second week of practice with a long and hard scrimmage.

LINESMEN BUSY.

Especial attention was devoted to the line candidates yesterday because of their laggard play in Thursday's scrimmage. They had ample opportunity to work off their sluggishness in a long drill on riding an opponent out. And they had lots of tackling, too, so it is expected the next scrimmage will show an improved brand of play.

There isn't much conjecture as to the probable first-string line. The following players seem to have their positions pretty well in hand: Captain Parker Bryant and Charley George, ends; Dan Kenzie and Dave Barrow, tackles; Paul Goldsmith and John Patrick, guards, and Andy Morrow, center.

With such players as Dan Aderhold, tackle; Julian Stovall, end; Rudy Shouse, center, and Joe Herriot, guard, battling for positions, however, there may possibly be a change in personnel before the opening game against Chattanooga.

BACKS SHAPE UP.

The backfield isn't so far from being complete as it might seem at a cursory glance. It begins to look as though Claud Herrin, the speedy and versatile back, may take over the quarterback position, with Lefty Sypert and Frank Anderson at halfbacks, and Dapper Myers at fullback.

The players have confidence in Herrin's ability as a field general. They seem to work better when he is in there.

Such a quarterback selection would leave out stellar players like Ray Walker, John Putno, Sam Baker, Jack Harrison, hard-working sophomore who is regarded as a coming star by the coaches, and Harry Wren.

That's a special problem confronting Coaches Robertson and Nutty Campbell.

Only they know the solution—and they won't tell.

Fort Benning Man Is Fourth in Shoot

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, Sept. 11.—(UP)—Lieutenant Emerald F. Sloan, seventh United States infantry, Vancouver barracks, Washington state, today won the national individual rifle championship, scoring 286 out of a possible 300 points to outrank 1,728 civilian and military marksmen.

Ranking second to the Oregon marksman was Emmet O. Swanson, Minneapolis, Minn., civilian. Corporal William A. Esterling, United States marine corps, Quantico, Va., finished third, and Captain Kerrie L. Berry, 24th United States infantry, Fort Benning, Ga., who led preliminary firing, was fourth. Captain C. P. Wade, infantry reserve, Chester, Pa., placed fifth. Mrs. Ames B. Webb, the only woman to participate in all National Rifle Association events, was among the leaders with an expert's score of 264.

Princeton's Coach Reported Improved

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 11.—(AP) The condition of Albert E. Wittmer, head football coach at Princeton University and Mercer county assemblyman, who underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis Wednesday, was reported as "satisfactory" by Princeton hospital authorities.

Wittmer, stricken while on a vacation in New England, was taken by automobile from the station after a train had made a special stop. The operation was performed by Dr. Ralph J. Belford, university surgeon.

Unless unforeseen complications develop, Wittmer will be released from the hospital in about two weeks, Dr. Belford said. University authorities are expected to select a temporary head coach.

Two-Year-Old Filly Is Jinx to Riders

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—(AP)—J. W. Marchbank's 2-year-old filly, Givanna, is often in the money, but she is getting a reputation as a jinx horse for her riders.

Several weeks ago Dave Bryant, Louisville jockey, brought Givanna in first at Hawthorne, much to the pained surprise of a gang of hoodlums, it was said. Bryant was said to have taken $700 to "pull" the horse, and had won, spoiling a betting coup. He was beaten, driven out of Chicago and is under suspension.

Charlie Allen finished third on Givanna at Lincoln fields Wednesday and the same night was beaten and robbed of $400 and a valuable diamond.

DempseyWallop Fails In Tacoma Exhibition

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, boxed five rounds against four northwest heavyweights here last night, failing to score a knockdown or knockout as he toyed with his opponents.

Marine Ranieri, Tacoma heavyweight, came out of retirement, somewhat portly and overweight, but lasted the opening round.

George Rickard, also of Tacoma, boxed two rounds with Dempsey, and was shaken up three or four times by lefts and rights to the head, but managed to survive. "Cyclone" Thompson, Yakima, and Wayne Fitts, Tacoma, boxed Dempsey one round each, and showed some aggressiveness but little effectiveness. Thompson opened a slight cut under Dempsey's left eye.

The program was staged for the benefit of the Junior League milk fund. About 6,000 attended.

WEST SIDE TENNIS CLUB, FOREST HILLS, L. I., Sept. 11.—A new national champion will be crowned when George Lott, who dethroned John Doeg today, meets Ellsworth Vines in the championship match tomorrow. Vines beat the year's sensation, Fred Perry, in a fine recovery after trailing by two sets.

The story of the defeat of the national champion by George Lott is purely the story of the return of service. From the beginning of the match, Lott set out to make Doeg play the ball as often as possible in every point. He made no attempt to pass Doeg on the champion's delivery, but he made Doeg volley regularly. Once the ball was in play, Lott was master of the situation.

Only in the early stages was Doeg in any position to look like a winner. He broke Lott to lead at 5-4 and if he had held his serve for the set it might have shaken Lott's accuracy, but instead Doeg missed two easy shots and Lott pulled even with cleverly placed soft shots.

From then to the end it was all Lott, who grew steadily better, handling Doeg's famous delivery with ease and running the champion unmercifully.

Fred Perry showed up the weaknesses of Ellsworth Vines' game as they never previously have been shown. He settled into a varied short and deep attack to Vines' backhand, mixed with a slow, sharply angled cross court shot that repeatedly pulled Vines into the error of overhitting or netting his returns.

It was a brilliantly conceived offensive and exploited Vines' inability to handle the low-bouncing ball. Notwithstanding the fact that Perry was the victim of many bad decisions on the lines, he was always in command of the situation in the first two sets.

The tremendous amount of running which Vines forced on Perry took its toll and the American went into the lead in the third set, 4-2, as Perry's accuracy slackened and then the American ran out the set, 6-4.

The fourth set saw Vines going to the net for the first time, which broke up Perry's short and deep at-

Lowly White Sox Cost Yanks Ground in Fight for Second Place

RUTH'S SMASH IN FIRST ENDS IN TRIPLE PLAY

Braves Beat Cardinals, Pirates Trim Giants in National.

By L. S. Cameron,
United Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(UP)—Chicago's lowly White Sox turned in a 3-to-1 victory over the New York Yankees and prevented their rivals from gaining ground on the idle Washington Senators in the fight for the American league runner-up post. The defeat put the Yankees two and one-half games behind Washington.

Fine pitching by Ted Lyons and a first-inning triple play featured the game. Lyons, who has been having a bad season, showed much of the form which made him one of the league's outstanding stars a year ago. He allowed the Yanks 11 hits, but kept them well distributed and seldom was in danger.

A triple play by the Sox in the first inning resulted when Babe Ruth hit to Sullivan at third. Sullivan tagged out a runner at third, threw to Kerr to catch another at second and Kerr threw to Blue to get Ruth at first.

TIGERS BLANKED.

Boston defeated Detroit, 5 to 0, in the only other scheduled American league game. Danny MacFayden held the Tigers to three hits in scoring his fourteenth victory, while the Red Sox made all of their runs off Orlin Collier, Three-Eye league rookie, who pitched the first five innings.

Brooklyn and Chicago, rivals for third place in the National league, remained in a virtual tie, Brooklyn defeating Cincinnati, 8 to 3, and Chicago beating Philadelphia, 3 to 1.

Neal Finn led Brooklyn's 14-hit attack on three Cincinnati pitchers, with four hits in five times up. William Watson Clark allowed the Reds 11 hits, but pitched shutout ball until the seventh, when he let down because of his big lead.

SMITH WINS.

Bob Smith, former Boston Brave, pitched the Cubs to their triumph over the Phillies. Smith allowed only five hits, and blanked the Phils except in the third, while his mates made their nine hits off Dudley good for a trio of runs.

The second-place New York Giants dropped a 3-to-2 decision to Pittsburgh. Larry French held the Giants to eight hits, the same number his mates secured off Parmelee, and won his own game with a single to score Piet in the eighth.

Ben Cantwell pitched the Boston Braves to a 6-to-3 victory over the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals. The Braves touched Rhem and Lindsey for 17 safeties, while Cantwell allowed the Cards but eight safe blows.

Marvin Returns To Atlanta Mat

Atlanta wrestling fans, who have become used to real rough customers of the mat, will see an old favorite in action next Wednesday night at Spiller field. He is Chief Tom Marvin, who of late has been taking on all the big boys and making good showings against them. Marvin recently beat Milo Steinborn at Richmond with his Cherokee chin lock.

The Chief will meet Cy Williams, the greatly improved collegian, in the semi-final.

Paul Jones, always a favorite, will come back against George Tragos, the former Missouri professor. Tragos is reputed to be a good match for the Texan.

Waycross Gridders Open Season Friday

WAYCROSS, Ga., Sept. 11.—The Waycross High School Bulldogs will launch their new football schedule on Friday afternoon, September 18, meeting Fernandina, Fla., High school in the Florida city.

The Bulldogs have enjoyed a two-year relationship with Fernandina, having played a tie two years ago, and winning by a wide margin last year.

Waycross' hopes for a winning eleven this year rest on the shoulders of a new coach, Luther Ray, a former Mercer University athlete who comes here from Baxley High school.

Only four lettermen return from last year, including Marvin Hood, Wilbur James, Jack Jennings and Bob Vann, none of whom have seen service for more than one season.

An election to fill the vacancy as captain caused by the failure of Billy Cannon to return to school, will be held late in October, after the season has gotten under way, it is announced.

tack. He finally broke Perry to lead 4-3 with Perry getting nervous on close decisions. Perry had game point to pull even, but great serving by Vines saved the break and Vines ran out the set 6-4 for two sets all.

The break through Perry's opening service was the keynote of the fifth set, and Vines, once in the lead, dashed ahead to victory.

City Golfers Face Lively Week-End

Atlanta golfers face a busy week-end, finishing up play in numerous tournaments.

Qualifying rounds for the Capital City Club championship will be completed this afternoon, with the first round slated to start Sunday afternoon. Charley Dannals Jr. has set the qualifying pace to date with a 72, two strokes over par. There will be as many flights as necessary, and each will contain 16 players.

Two matches were played Friday afternoon in the Ansley Park Club championship. Ed Joiner defeated W. F. Sampson, 2-1, in the championship flight, and Sam Cronheim downed J. C. Fisch by the same margin in the second flight. Remaining matches in the first round are to be completed over the week-end.

West End golfers are to finish up second round matches today and tomorrow, while third and quarter-final rounds of the club championship at East Lake are also scheduled.

Members of the Forest Hills and Piedmont Park Clubs have several important matches in their club championships as they near the quarter and semi-final rounds.

'Gator Grid Squad Nears Completion

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Sept. 11.—(AP) With the arrival Wednesday of Don Forsyth, veteran guard, the football ranks of the University of Florida swelled to 57.

Of the letter-men scheduled to return, only Ed Parnell, star end, and Lincoln Silsby, fullback, were missing.

Work continued today on fundamentals, while a group of workmen hastened to place in readiness a new suspension dummy machine planned by Assistant Coach Nash Higgins, and which looks to be one of the most useful football practice contrivances ever set up.

Light gymnasium equipment continues to be the garb of the 'Gators. The weather today was warm.

McMillen Breaks Shoulder in Match

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 11.—(AP)—A broken shoulder forced Jim McMillen, of Chicago, to forfeit his heavyweight wrestling match with Gino Garibaldi, of Italy, here tonight. McMillen won the first fall with a reverse back slam in 44:17 but suffered a broken shoulder in the process and the match was awarded to Garibaldi. McMillen weighed 213 pounds; his rival 216.

Open House Program At Skeet Club Today

The Atlanta Skeet Club will hold open house this afternoon and all shotgun lovers are invited to participate in the program.

Local shooters plan a membership drive and arrangements will be made in the near future to appoint several teams to secure as many new members as possible and hold team shoots each week. These events are similiar to the old-fashioned shooting events of Revolutionary days.

Skeet shooting is the only way to secure shotgun practice, the many angles and positions requiring gun handling the same an is field shooting.

White Sox Challenge Is Accepted by Cubs

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The Cubs today accepted the challenge of the White Sox to play a Chicago city championship series at the close of the season. The series usually runs during the world series, starting October 1.

Out of 17 series, the White Sox have won 11, the Cubs 5, and 1 was tied. The Cubs won the last two.

Culbertson on Contract

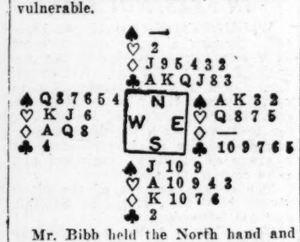
BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

Making Assurance Doubly Sure

In the play of many hands at Contract, the expert has little, if any, advantage over the average player. There are numerous hands which yield just as many tricks under ordinary treatment as under expert treatment. A large percentage of the hands yield a game to the expert while failing to produce a game for the average player. When such hands occur, the play of the expert is in striking contrast with average play. If the hand appears likely to produce game, the average player takes it for granted that luck will be with him, plays the hand the "natural" way, and then curses his luck when he finds the breaks against him. The expert, however, takes it for granted that luck will be against him, and stops to analyze the hand. He looks to see, first, whether there is a chance that a bad break is in store for him, and, second, whether there is a way to make the contract against either good or bad distribution.

The following hand played by John D. Bibb, of Anniston, Ala., in a recent Team-of-Four Duplicate match gives a good illustration of the difference between average and expert treatment.

East was the Dealer; both sides vulnerable.



Mr. Bibb held the North hand and was faced with the question of whether to bid or to pass. His hand did not hold the honor-tricks requisite for an Opening bid of one. It was, however, extremely rich in distributional values if his partner in the South could supplement either his clubs or his diamonds. In order that he might not be entirely adrift on the seas of distribution, if left to play it at a bid of one, he tossed an anchor to the windward by bidding one club, reasoning that the honor-count, if the worst came to the worst, would compensate him in part for a defeat. However, the fact that all three players had passed seemed to indicate a rather even distribution of the honors in the other three hands. The final contract was five diamonds doubled by West. It is worthy of note that East and West could have made five spades losing only a heart and a club. At each table East opened with the spade King, which North trumped. Here the difference in methods began to operate.

As was stated, this hand was played in a Team-of-Four Duplicate match and the final declaration at both tables was the same. At table one when North looked over the Dummy he decided his contract was a cinch. Accordingly he led trumps and lost to the Ace and Queen, East leading spades at every opportunity. With the average player's usual idea of exhausting trumps, North led a third round of diamonds, which took his own last trump, as well as West's, and left South with one trump. Then he started to run off his clubs, and found that East would win the fifth round unless he used Dummy's last trump on it, and that he had to lose a trick in hearts at the end, notwithstanding the established club he held. It never occurred to him that the hand could easily have been made by proper play, and he complained bitterly of his bad luck in finding West with only one club.

At table two, North happened to be Mr. Bibb. After trumping the King of spades, he led the Knave of diamonds, hoping to induce East to cover, if he held the Queen. The bad break in trumps failed to dismay North, except for its tendency to show that West might be black in clubs. If so, no line of play would be successful, as East would stop the clubs and North would be compelled to lose a trick in clubs or hearts, or allow West to make his eight of trumps, being set in any event. He was compelled, therefore, to play as if West held at least one club. If so, North could make the contract which he proceeded to do as follows: When the diamond Knave was won by the Queen, West led a small spade (as at the other table). North trumped, and led a small diamond, on which he played Dummy's Ten, thus keeping a high trump in each hand. West forced North again with the Queen of spades. North retained the nine of diamonds as a re-entry for his clubs. He then led the Ace of clubs, which held, and followed with a small club, which was trumped with Dummy's King. The lead of the seven of diamonds pulled West's last trump, and put North in to make the rest of the clubs. Trick 13 was won with the Ace of hearts. North thus won 5 club tricks, one heart trick, 3 spade ruffs and one trump trick in the closed hand, and one club ruff in Dummy—fulfilling his doubled contract as the result of preparing for the worst instead of expecting the best.

It pays to take nothing for granted, even with an apparent "cinch" to make assurance doubly sure.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Next to the Approach-Forcing bids the negative one notrump is the most important bid in Auction and Contract. It keeps the bidding open without increasing the contract, and at the same time warns partner that although the hand contains not less than 1 1-2 honor-tricks, it does not contain even a 1-2 trick more than 2 honor-tricks.

The negative one notrump is a logical corrollary of the Approach-Forcing principle. Some players and writers practically nullify the value of a good principle by abusing it with bids of one notrump on considerably less than the minimum 1 1-2 honor-tricks. The 1 1-2 minimum is the basis for gauging the rebid values in the Opening Hand, and the Takeout should, therefore, never be shaded below 1 trick. Bids of one notrump merely to announce that the hand is quite weak, or, worse still, merely because a singleton is held in partner's bid suit, upset the delicate balance of rebid values especially with the type of hands where the bidding is already very close. As a result the valuable part-scores are squandered on futile attempts for game and unnecessary penalties are incurred. By a strange ricochet the very players who indulge in "ultra-negative" notrump rescues will, when vulnerable, frequently fail to contract for a successful game for the very reason that they fear that partner might hold less than 1 1-2 honor-tricks.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Can you get the other person's point of view? Can you see with his eyes and hear with his ears? Can you measure the struggle he makes and sympathize with the failures he meets? Can you put yourself in his place when it is not a pleasant place? Can you understand why he behaves as he does when his conduct doesn't meet with your approval? Can you give him credit for his good points when they are outweighed by his bad points? If you can, you are a very unusual person. You have either had large and varied experience of life or you are one of those rarely unselfish persons who is able to empty himself of his prejudices, in order to enter sympathetically into the lives of those who are hard pressed, of those who travel rough roads with thin soles.

I was speaking recently with one who excels in the art of putting herself in the other person's place and I said to her that the trait was very admirable. Her reply was in keeping with her character. Said she: "I deserve no credit, I was born chicken-hearted to begin with, and to end with, I have seen so much suffering and sorrow in this world, I have seen so many people fighting against insuperable difficulties, that I have an understanding of every problem that I see, or at least, a keen sympathy with the struggles that are going on around me. I have been so poor that I am at the mercy of the peddler who rings the door bell. I see so well why he has to peddle from door to door that I feel the necessity for buying what he offers, if I have the money to buy, and if I don't I feel that I must listen to his argument, and give him some encouragement."

We are all born "chicken-hearted" but most of us manage to harden our hearts. We all have the opportunity to look at suffering but we shut our eyes and stop our ears against it. We do this because we are selfish. And so long as we remain selfish, we can never get the other person's viewpoint.

Aren't we selfish? Aren't we self-righteous? Aren't we shameless in our arrogance? What right have we to assume that our own viewpoint is the correct one and that our neighbor's is the wrong one? None at all.

We may as well recognize that we cannot help anyone whose viewpoint we cannot get. The parent must be able to get the viewpoint of his child before he can discipline him properly. The friend must get the viewpoint of his friend before he can qualify for real friendship. The clergyman must get the viewpoint of the pew before he can preach to it. The husband must get the viewpoint of the wife and the wife the viewpoint of the husband, before they can live together amicably. The servant must get the viewpoint of the mistress before she can be a satisfactory servant. The lawyer must get the viewpoint of his client before he can defend him.

We don't have to sacrifice any principle to get the other person's viewpoint. We don't have to agree with it when we get it. We simply have to look at it before we can enter into sympathetic relation with the person who holds it. This was the genius of the founder of the Christian church. He was always able to get the viewpoint of the other person. He got the viewpoint of the sinful woman, of the afflicted widow, of the rich man and the poor man, of the thief, of the skeptic, of the murderer. He got their viewpoint but He showed them by His precept and example that His viewpoint was a better one.

NEGRO ARRESTED ON COUNTERFEIT CHARGE

For the second time within four years, the easy money efforts of John Emanuel Johnson, 20, negro, have come to grief, according to the story told before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith Friday when the judge bound John over to the federal grand jury under $2,000 bond on a counterfeiting charge.

George H. Broadnax, secret service operative in charge of the Atlanta district, said that John was arrested by him at Fort Valley in 1928 on a charge involving the passing of counterfeit coins, and that he drew a two-year sentence. John was arrested Thursday by City Detectives W. B. Martin and J. M. Austin in possession of two badly made counterfeit half-dollars, and led the officers to a hiding place where they found three plaster of paris moulds, two for half-dollars and one for quarters.

Burgess Children's Stories

THE JOURNEY'S END.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Happily at the journey's end
Troubles cease and joys attend.
—Old Mother Nature.

Anyway this is often the case, and it is good that it is so. The Twitchtails felt that they had had troubles enough to last them for the remainder of their lives. Ever since the long journey in search of a new home, undertaken because they felt their old home was no longer safe, they had run from one danger into another, and they had begun to think that there was nothing but throuble in this Great World.

As usual Mrs. Twitchtail took the lead. Presently they came to a rocky hillside with plenty of trees and bushes growing among the rocks. Almost at once Mrs. Twitchtail became much excited.

"Now what is the matter with you?" grumbled Twitchtail, for he was tired and cross.

"There are other Squirrels living around here or my name isn't Mrs. Twitchtail," was the prompt and happy reply.

Twitchtail looked about rather aimlessly. Then his eyes brightened. Just to one side was a pile of husks that only a Squirrel could have left. Moreover, they had been left there that very day. Before he could think of anything to say there was a challenge in a sharp voice, and sitting on a big rock they discovered a gray old Squirrel of their own kind.

"Who are you, and what do you want here?" he demanded in anything but a pleasant tone.

"Travelers looking for a new home and very tired," replied Mrs. Twitchtail meekly.

Then she told him the whole story, and ended by asking if there were many other Squirrels living thereabouts and if she and Twitchtail might not find a home there.

When they had finished a sleek young Squirrel stepped out and greeted them. It was one of their own children who had disappeared two years before and gone adventuring. After this there was no more suspicion and they were invited to join the colony.

"Do these two-legged creatures called men ever bother you?" asked Mrs. Twitchtail anxiously.

"Never," was the prompt response, and it was explained that none lived anywhere near. Then began a hunt for a house, with plenty of willing helpers to show them about. That night they curled up to sleep in a new home and all their troubles were forgotten. They had a good house, good neighbors and had been assured that there was plenty of food to be obtained right close by. What more could they ask?

Illinois Dog Lover Will Go to Jail For Saving Canine

EVANSTON, Ill., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Edward B. Bailey is willing to go to jail and stay there for a long time for a dog.

Not long ago he slipped up behind the official dog catcher's wagon and liberated a dog that was being taken to the pound.

A jury in Magistrate Max Borchandt's court yesterday decided that this was an offense that called for a fine of $10 and costs, or $20.50 in all.

"I won't pay a dime," Bailey said, whereupon the magistrate ruled he could work out the fine in jail at the rate of 50 cents a day, or 41 days in all.

"It's the principle of the thing," Bailey said as he was locked up in jail. "I do not like to see dogs taken to the pound. If I had it to do over I would save that dog again."

GREAT BRITAIN CUTS BIG PROGRAM TO BONE

LONDON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Great Britain's active airship program will be abandoned in the interest of national economy, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald told the house of commons today.

The dirigible R-100, sister ship of the tragic R-101, will be deposed of, to help effect a saving of $22,500,000 in the national defense program.

The Cardington airship station will be placed on a basis of "care and maintenance." Masts and other paraphernalia which have been built in various parts of the world to facilitate airship flights will be reduced to the same status. A staff will be maintained only to watch over the properties.

Thus the government's reduced plans will cost only $100,000, saving $550,000 annually.

U. S. FILES APPEAL BRIEF AGAINST MAGAZINE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The government filed a brief today opposing a review by the supreme court of the action of the lower federal courts sustaining the postmaster at New York city in excluding from the mails an issue of the Revolutionary Age, published by Benjamin Gitlow as the organ of the communist party in the United States.

LOGAN ASKS $16,340 IN FEES, NOT $200,000

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Through a typographical error in a story on September 2, the Associated Press said that Arthur G. Logan had filed six summonses in court against the Nye Odorless Incinerator Corporation, of Macon, Ga., for $200,000 which he alleged represented fees for services rendered by a group of attorneys, engineers and sales representatives.

The correct amount of the claim should have been stated as $16,340, and not $200,000.

The Associated Press is glad to make this correction.

CEDARTOWN, Ga., Sept. 11.—A jury found Carter Paris, county policeman, not guilty of murder in the killing of Gordon Ellis here a few weeks ago. Paris is back on duty.

LINDBERGH UNDECIDED ON ROUTE TO CHINA

TOKYO, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh said today the air route he and Mrs. Lindbergh would follow on their journey homeward would depend to some extent upon information and certain reports he expected to receive in China.

The colonel said he had no idea how long they would remain in the far eastern republic, nor would he know whether he would visit Peiping and other points before he consulted authorities at Nanking, the Chinese capital.

The Lindberghs plan to leave Kasumigaura naval base, 50 miles from here, about 11 a.m. Saturday (midnight E. S. T. Friday), weather permitting.

Better Teamwork Need Of California Couple

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The next time Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allen, of Hollywood, start out on an ocean voyage they are going up the gangplank together.

Allen boarded the steamer El Salvador for New York yesterday, expecting Mrs. Allen to follow him. The boat got under way and Allen discovered that his wife was not aboard. He returned to shore on the pilot boat.

Meantime, Mrs. Allen, arriving at the dock just as the ship was getting under way, hired a speedboat to catch the ship. The pilot boat and speedboat passed each other. Coming alongside the ship, Mrs. Allen learned her husband had left it. She returned to the dock.

Allen, having learned about the speedboat, was just hiring another one for a dash to the ship when Mrs. Allen arrived.

ANOTHER MIDSHIPMAN WILL LEAVE ACADEMY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Secretary Adams announced today that Midshipman G. A. Rooney, of Haddam, Kan., had been permitted to resign from the naval academy following violations of naval discipline on this summer's training cruise to Europe.

Four other midshipmen were allowed to resign several days ago on the same charges. All five are members of the first or senior class.

Secretary Adams said Rooney had been given his choice between submitting his resignation and being dismissed outright and had chosen the former. The resignation was accepted today.

IOWANS TO HOLD CORN FOR SIXTY CENT PRICE

DES MOINES, Sept. 11.—(UP)—Representatives from the corn lands of Iowa voted today to hold their 1931 crop off the market until the price has reached 60 cents a bushel.

To keep from starving while their plan is put into effect, the delegation decided to resort to a state warehousing act under which the farmers can borrow money on their crop in storage.

Women M. P.s Engage In Parliament Row

LONDON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Nancy Lady Astor and Mrs. Leah Manning, a labor member of parliament, created a minor sensation as the house of commons adjourned today by engaging in an altercation which grew out of Lady Astor's remarks during the session.

In a spirited debate over economy issues the Virginia-born member made numerous sallies at the expense of the labor members and as the house emptied she and the buxom, red-haired labor member from North London found themselves in the middle of the crowd.

Mrs. Manning took Lady Astor to task and the latter came back with all her verbal batteries. The other members cheered and jeered, but when it appeared that there might be a closer encounter the two women were escorted out by their friends.

WHITE FAWN

INSTALLMENT XII.

Rupert played golf for the exercise. He ate for the calories. He observed a very strict diet, drank only caffeinless coffee, never touched tea (because one night, ten years ago, he had lain awake four hours after drinking two cups), and consumed his eight glasses of water daily, with fervent regularity. Rupert had never sowed any wild oats. He had never been drunk in his life. He had never even been intoxicated by unalcoholic joy. To laugh till it hurt was an experience unknown to him.

Lisa had felt sorry for him when they were first married. The first musical show they attended together was in New York on their wedding trip. It wasn't very musical, but it did its best to make up for that lack in other respects. Lisa had treated Rupert that night with the gentle persuasion she would show a city-bred boy on his first visit to a farm. But Rupert didn't enjoy the farm's dirt and noises, he told her. He had sat silent and unsmiling while she had laughed till the tears rolled down her cheeks at a comedian who was portraying a man who was drunk. He had sung a song that perhaps wasn't very nice, she had conceded later in their room, but it was awfully funny just the same. Lisa had defended not only the comedian and the song, but also the abbreviated costumes of the chorus girls. Rupert had sternly reprimanded her. She had felt like a naughty little girl, a punished naughty little girl as she lay in the dark, wide awake, beside this man, twenty years her senior whom only a fortnight ago she had promised to love, honor, and to obey so long as they both should live.

Rupert, too, had lain awake that night. He must be patient with Lisa, but unyielding. She had much to learn. She was young, and, though endowed with charm and a manner of distinction, he must remember she was the daughter of very simple parents. He must instill his principles in her from the start. If she was to be the mother of his children, she must learn not to laugh at cheap jokes and defend vulgarity; or, he carefully explained next morning at breakfast, to take joy in any form of amusement that did not uplift her morally, improve her intellectually or make her more fit physically. Lisa had listened, silent and aghast. That was over 22 years ago.

For 22 years Rupert believed that his attitude toward Lisa was correct. He had acted high-mindedly. From the best of motives. Entirely altruistically. For her good. For the good of their children. His principles again had been his shield. Throughout his entire married life they had been his shield whenever there were discussions of variance of opinions. But what had been Rupert's shield had been a barrier to Lisa.

Very long ago she had given up trying to break through the barrier. It was useless to attempt to make Rupert tolerant of anything which he had been taught to look upon with contempt. Her arguments were as ineffectual as drifting mist against a rampart built of stone. Grandmother Vale had built well. Oh, it wasn't right that the influence of a domineering parent should shut a boy away from all forms of fun, from all forms even of folly! A little folly was so humanizing. It's aftermath of humanity, however brief, so endearing. Rupert never committed follies of which he was aware. Lisa had never seen him humble. It was Grandmother Vale's fault. She, Lisa must not allow similar barriers to be built about her children. That had been Lisa's vow when they were babies. Difficult. Of course she wanted her children to have principles, high, strict principles, too. But humility also, tolerance, and much human kindness. Were they incompatible?

When Fabia opened the door to her mother's room, Lisa was still in bed. She had evidently just finished with her breakfast-tray. The morning newspaper was scattered over the coverlet.

"I was just going to get up and see if you were still asleep," said Lisa.

"Mother," exclaimed Fabia, "I want you to get up and come help me find Thad's murderer." Her voice was low and husky.

"Father came up to my room just before he left for town," said Lisa, "and said he thought it useless to do anything about it. You know we can't do anything in opposition to father."

"Why not—if he's wrong?"

"Well, but, Fabia, listen, dear. He's more or less right, I think. It's much better for you not to go over the details of the accident any more. We all have to learn to forget—and go ahead with what lies before us. It won't bring Thad back to find the man who ran over him."

"You'd find him, all right, if it was June or one of the boys."

"Well, aren't we thankful it isn't June or one of the boys?"

Fabia sank down in the little chair in front of her mother's dressing-table. Her mother was not going to help her!

"I'm not going to say you're exaggerating, Fabia," Lisa went on, "for that would sound unappreciative of what I know Thad is to you. But I do think you mustn't let yourself brood over this." She waited a moment, but still Fabia was silent. "Don't you want to read what the paper says about your party? It's a very good announcement, and very accurate."

Fabia shook her head. "Not now."

"I was very proud of you last night," Lisa went on, persistently cheerful. "I heard many lovely things said of you. Come over here and sit on my bed, and let me tell you some of them."

"I'd rather not."

Her eyes had suddenly dicovered among the gold things on the dressing-table a tiny vase, designed for holding hat-pins, but now it held one small faded red chrysanthemum with a very short stem. Her eyes had chanced upon it as unexpectedly as they had fallen on Mr. Firth's boutonniere last night.

"Well," she heard her mother saying behind her, "I think I'll get up and dress now. And then let's do something together. I'd love a round of golf myself."

Fabia replied, still staring at the chrysanthemum looming between herself and her mother like a wall through which she could not see "No, I'd rather not. I think I'd feel better just to go off alone in my car somewhere."

"Well, all right. If you'd rather. I understand. But don't forget you're pouring at the La Farges' tea between 5 and 5:30 this afternoon."

At that Fabia tore her gaze away from the chrysanthemum and stood up. "I can't! Oh, I just can't, mother!" she cried out, and suddenly left the room.

"Tell mother I'm lunching in town," she left word with a maid a half an hour later. If there was no one else to avenge Thad's death, then she must!

She left her car on Charles street in the long fringe of automobiles that edged the Common and Public Garden. Here daily all sorts and varieties of cars awaited the return of their owners, who had come into town from the suburbs and left their machines here, much in the same fashion as their ancestor hitched their horses and buggies to the long rail fence that often surrounds village greens.

After parking her car, Fabia cut across the grassy stretches of the Commons, thick with early-fallen leaves and scampering squirrels, stepping over the low wire fences, as if she were tramping in the country regardless of paths and barriers. Her destination was the state house. She had no idea where one went to obtain justice for a wrong unpunished, but she had never forgotten her grandmother's words long ago when she had called the state house dome a lighthouse in the fog—law and order keeping us safe—guiding the way. Now, perhaps, it would guide the way for her.

A kind old man, who seemed to be some sort of official, appeared from a room at the right as Fabia stood uncertainly in the corridor, just inside the door. He explained that the automobile registrations were no longer kept in the state house.

He went into an elaborate description of the easiest route to registration headquarters, and was so kindly disposed that Fabia ventured to ask him what he would consider the best course for her to follow in the case of a driver running over a valuable dog and not stopping. The old man said he believed a lawyer would be of use.

"Of course," she had agreed, flushing. She ought to have thought of that before. Bu who? What lawyer? But first she would obtain the name and address of Thad's murderer.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—For the first time since September 1 the average of 90 principal stocks today closed with a net gain.

Small though the advance was, the interruption to a 10-day decline relieved some of the tension in market circles which had been expecting a technical reversal of trend.

Once again the market opened promisingly, only to fall back as liquidation was resumed in a number of important issues. Good support for United States Steel, American Can and a few other favorites, however, eventually stiffened resistance elsewhere and the list rose slowly and quietly during the afternoon as shorts covered. Sales totaled 1,969,780 shares.

New lows for General Electric, Westinghouse, General Motors, International Harvester, Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Pacific and Northern Pacific carried forebodings of a wider break while the market was taking its forenoon dip.

United States Steel's maximum advance for more than 2 points was cut to 1 3-4. A 3-point gain in American Can was mostly held. General Electric and General Motors finished fractionally higher after selling at the new lows, respectively, of 35 3-4 and 30 7-8. There were narrow net advances in Radio, American Telephone, Union Carbide, Chrysler, Bethlehem and National Biscuit. International Telephone halved a 2-point drop. New York Central, Union Pacific, Rock Island and Atchison were among the firmer rails, up 1 to 3. Gold mining shares sparkled.

Stronger wheat prices, reflecting the bullish government forecast on the spring crop, helped the cause of rising stock quotations, but the latter got no support for most bonds. United States governments, however, strengthened and there was the familiar firmness to strictly gilt-edged obligations. Foreign loans and domestic securities of less than the highest ratings slumped.

Support for the German mark cancelled part of the week's decline, which appears to have been due not only to foreign sales of securities when the boerse reopened but also to the eagerness of foreign banks to anticipate the time for taking out some of their credits. Sterling rallied 3-16 to $4.86 for cables. The Canadian dollars was about unchanged.

Cotton trailed behind stocks, closing only 1 to 3 points higher.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Sales in the primary coarse yarn gray cloth market today were mainly for spot and nearby requirements, based on firm prices. A little pressure to move finished curtain goods and curtains has developed. Prices that figure 12½ per cent less are coming out on acetate process rayon fabrics. Blanket mills are behind on deliveries of low price numbers. Steady sheet and pillow case trading is experienced and lower prices looked for. Cotton yarns are selling at firm prices for quick shipment. Burlap markets were firm and little business.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—An opening decline in cotton today, was followed by rallies on trade buying and covering.

After selling off to 6.84 at the start, December rallied to 7.01, or 12 points net higher, but offerings increased at this figure and there were reactions later under increased southern selling. December closed at 6.92 with the general market closing barely steady at net advances of 1 to 3 points.

The opening was steady 5 to 6 points lower in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables and overnight selling orders which seemed to come partly from the south. Offerings were absorbed quite readily on the initial decline to 6.62 for October and 7.11 for March, however, and the market steadied up during the middle of the day on covering or rebuying by recent sellers who appeared to be influenced by the failure of more selling pressure to develop on the decline.

Two tropical disturbances were in evidence, one moving westward, while the other was said to be centered over the extreme southern Gulf of Mexico, with somewhat diminishing intensity. Local cotton men who make a study of weather conditions said it was impossible to foretell the further course of the storms or their probable intensity should they approach the belt.

Liverpool cables said that continental and Bombay liquidation had been taken by trade calling and covering in that market and reported moderate sales of cotton cloths to the continent and the Argentine. Exports today 25,052 making 370,869 so far this season. Port receipts 77,320. United States port stocks 2,814,157.

SPOTS IN NEW ORLEANS FLUCTUATE ERRATICALLY

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The cotton market failed to develop any great degree of activity today and prices fluctuated erratically. With Liverpool lower than due at the start. The market here opened 3 to 4 points down and soon showed losses of 4 to 5 points.

Later the market rallied on fair trade buying stimulated by expectations of some action favorable to restrictions on next year's production. On a reported good demand for spots and only limited hedge selling. This demand caused prices to move up 13 to 15 points near mid-session. Prices eased off 6 to 7 points on wheat was considered bearish weekly statistics. Particularly mill takings which were smaller than last week as well as last year. The market after rallying for new highs on the day about the middle of the afternoon with active months 18 to 19 points above the lows owing to a good spot demand and firmer stocks, turned easier in the later trading, losing 12 points from the top and closing steady, net unchanged to 2 points up for the day. Liverpool is due tomorrow, 1 penny point up on New Orleans.

Port receipts 78,422. For week 168,082. For season 467,654. Last season 1,158,820; exports 25,302. For week 83,324. For season 362,578. Last season 580,597; port stock 2,810,485. Last year 2,110,191; combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 54,951. Last year 76,318; spot sales at southern markets 29,610. Last year 42,555.

Brokers' Views

Stock Letters.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Rallying tendencies expanded to some extent during the afternoon with good gains being recorded in most of the leading industrials. Steel reached 83 following news of a substantial gain in operations in the Youngstown district and on rumors some important people saw more signs of improvement for the industry. Perhaps the most important single factor in the rally was the growing report through the Street that some change must take place in the Volstead act. This report gained ground following news of the acquisition of a large grain elevator by the Pabst Corporation and the statement of one of the officials of the company that purchase was in line with belief congress would legalize manufacture and sale of beer next year.

DOBBS & CO.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—If organized banking support should come into the stock market to stabilize prices and offset the new wave of pessimism sweeping the country, it would be logical to expect such artificial support just above the bear market lows registered by industrial stocks on June 2. The Dow-Jones industrial averages touched a new low of 124.51 in today's nervous session, thus bringing the industrials within 4.62 points of the June 2 low of 119.89. A strong rally then developed on widely disseminated reports that a constructive announcement of major importance might be expected from Washington overnight. The rally may be expected to continue if such a development materializes, but if the rumors prove untrue, we would expect heavy offerings and a decisive test of the extreme lows of June 2.

COURTS & CO.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Throughout the first half of today's session surface indications showed little change from other days early in the week. Pressure in the morning was particularly noticeable on the utilities and electrical equipment companies. As the day progressed, however, it became evident that volume was growing smaller on setbacks and pressure letting up. Reports indicated that a substantial borrowing demand for stocks has developed during past few days which was taken to forecast a crowding of the short interest.

FENNER & BEANE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—In absence of any constructive external developments today's rally following more pressure against stocks in morning may be set down to the internal market's conditions. The constructive market interests had little in the way of news during the day. In fact, with soft markets abroad, renewed weakness in secondary bonds, adverse interpretations on England's spartan program for rehabilitating that nation's credit and early successes in the morning drive on stocks there was little to improve sentiment.

Grain Letters.

FENNER & BEANE.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—The sensation of a bulge extending throughout three days has been decidedly unusual in our recent experience and the fact that prices went through the offers so easily and that selling against them failed to check the advance has created a decided change in sentiment. Liverpool just about followed our advance yesterday rather than reflecting easier feeling in Winnipeg. Again our inspiration came from the northwest, Minneapolis advancing very sharply, but Winnipeg failed to reflect better feeling on this side of line. A late checkup showed yesterday's export sales were in the neighborhood of 2,000,000, including 400,000 old hard winters from the Atlantic seaboard and there were indications of further interest today.

Cotton Letters.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 11.—Cotton ruled firmer today after opening off on scattered hedge selling. October liquidation causing an easier tone at the start. Firmness of the New Orleans market rallied the market during the afternoon which seemed to be encouraged by the firmness of the wheat and stock markets and light southern offerings, and the close was 1 to 4 points over last night's final prices. Hedge selling will govern prices for the time being but until they come in greater volume prices may hold at this level.

HUBBARD BROS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The market opened lower this morning on easier cables and accumulation of overnight selling orders. The cotton that was offered was readily absorbed on trade buying limits. During the early part of the morning the market remained fairly steady with local sentiment inclined to be bearish on the theory that hedge sales would appear in the market as they did yesterday. When hedge sales failed to appear in any volume the market steadied up. The market closed 3 to 4 points above yesterday's final prices.

BEER & CO.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 11.—In line with lower Liverpool cables than due the cotton market today opened 2 to 4 points down but turned upward shortly after the call, influenced by an improvement in the stock market. There was little or no outside news of importance and cotton followed stocks all morning, recovering over half of Thursday's loss by noon. The weather map indicated scattered showers, mostly light in the western and central portions of the belt, while the forecast predicted showers and thundershowers in scattered localities, except in Arkansas, west Texas and the Carolinas. The market sagged slightly after noon, when the advance in stocks was checked and closed with net gains of 1 to 2 points for the day.

FENNER & BEANE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The market opened 4 to 7 points lower, rallied a few points, lost all this improvement and then made new highs for the day. This gain, however, was not fully maintained. Final prices were 1 to 3 points over last night. Cables were slightly lower than due under continental and Bombay liquidation which was only partially offset by trade covering and calling. Trade interests, locals, New Orleans, the continent and far eastern interests were among early buyers, while selling came principally from the south, Liverpool, commission houses and wire houses.

TRADE TRENDS

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

COAL—Signs that the summer slump had run its course in the middle western bituminous markets became apparent in August, Coal Age reports. An increase in the demand for prepared sizes caused prices to stiffen in the closing weeks of the month, and retailers, in general, showed more willingness to add to stocks.

COTTON—The New York Cotton Exchange service estimates domestic cotton consumption in August of 423,000 bales, against the census figures of 451,000 in July and 353,000 in August last year.

FOOD PRICES—Bradstreet's weekly food index turned upward this week, showing a rise of 3 cents over the post-war low touched last week. The index number for the week stands at $2.17, an increase of 1.4 per cent over the previous week, but a decline of 1.8 per cent from a month ago. As compared with the corresponding week of last year this week's number reveals a decrease of 22.2 per cent.

HEAVY CONSTRUCTION—Further declines in the country's list of heavy construction and engineering proposals, particularly in public work and school plans, in combination with Labor Day inactivity, reduced the week's aggregate value of all types of work except roads and residential to $22,786,000, Construction Daily reports. This compares with $56,043,000 in the corresponding week last year.

SILVER—Bar silver advanced an eighth of a cent in New York to 28 cents an ounce, and an eighth of a penny in London to 13 1-16 pence.

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Lively price bulges in all grains today accompanied news that 7,500,000 bushels of United States government-financed wheat had been sold to Germany. Wheat finished at virtually the day's topmost figures, influenced also by threshing returns showing that domestic spring wheat this season gave the smallest yield per acre ever known. Estimates were current that exporters took 2,000,000 bushels of North American wheat yesterday, including a good-sized percentage of domestic hard winter grades.

Wheat closed strong, 1 1-4 to 1 3-4 cents up, corn 3-8 to 1 1-8 advance, oats at 3-8 to 1 3-8 gain, and provisions 2 to 20 cents higher.

Corn and oats rose with wheat. Bullish official estimates regarding both the forage grains were almost ignored.

Provisions owed their advance to upturns in hog values.

BY ALEXANDER HENDERSON.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—United States Treasury and Liberty issues furnished an outstanding bright spot in an otherwise depressed bond market today.

The activity in them contributed substantially to the greater turnover of the market as a whole. Sales aggregated $12,470,000 on the stock exchange, compared with $12,008,000 Thursday. Sales of loans of the federal government approximated $1,500,000 at par values, the largest total for the group in several weeks.

All the more active issues closed higher and the others held firm.

The rest of the market contrasted sharply with the upturn in governments. The average price of sixty bonds composed of equal numbers of rail, industrial and public utility issues, reached a new low level at 90.7, a decline of 4-10 of a point. The average for 20 industrial bonds equalled its old low at 81.4.

Losses were spread over the list quite generally, but second grade issues of all sorts proved more vulnerable than high grade bonds. However, Atchison General 4s, which enjoy high standing, dropped to a new recent low at 98 3-4, and other gilt-edge issues were not entirely free from selling pressure.

German bonds made mixed changes, such losses as occurred being much smaller than yesterday. Other foreign obligations declined irregularly.

Robert F. Bruno, 24, soldier of the 13th coast artillery, Fort Barrancas, died from injuries received when an automile in which he was riding struck a parked lumber truck on a highway. Bruno's home is at Philadelphia.

LATE RALLY AIDS SHARES ON CURB

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—After absorbing considerable liquidation early in the session, in the course of which several prominent issues penetrated still lower record levels for the bear market, the curb market stiffened, and recovered rather briskly in the last hour.

This market was helped by the strong support accorded leading issues in the big board, which eventually precipitated considerable short covering. The utilities in particular were under pressure early, but came back strongly later.

Electric Bond and Share, again trading in large volume, sagged 3-4 of a point to a new low at 29 5-8, then recovered to close at 31, a net gain of 5-8 of a point.

Oils were generally steady. Gulf sagged for a time, but closed with a fractional gain. Indiana and Cities Service were about steady. International Petroleum lost a minor fraction.

In the industrials, Aluminum Co. lost nearly 4 points at one time, but was off only a point at the finish. Ford, Ltd., and Ford of France each sagged fractionally to new lows, but the former recovered. Woolworth, Ltd., closed up a fraction.

Lawyers Are Urged To Help Raise Level Of South's Culture

Approximately 100 attorneys heard Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta schools, in an address before the Atlanta Lawyers' Club at the Henry Grady hotel Friday night. Mr. Sutton, who was introduced by Welborn B. Cody, president of the club, spoke on the lawyer's duty to society.

"It is a lawyer's business," said Mr. Sutton, "to interpret civilization. It is his business to know tradition, custom and law. It rests upon him to help raise the level of culture."

A nation's level of culture is the barometer of the nation's business, and when that level is lifted, then business will be increased, Mr. Sutton asserted. The south's weakest point is its lack of culture, he said.

"Every lawyer should be a leader in his community," he said. "Alexander Stephens did a great deal for the profession because he was a leader." The requirements for entrance into the profession are much too low in some states, and it is the duty of all lawyers to help to raise them, he said.

A motion commending Judge Jesse Wood and Solicitor John S. McClelland for voluntarily reducing their salaries was approved unanimously.

BIRMINGHAMAN SUES FOR "LOBBY" FUNDS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 11.—(AP)—W. C. Fitts Jr. today filed suits against the city and county commission for recovery of $7,736 which he alleged was "unlawfully and illegally" paid to lobbyists during the recent session of state legislature.

The suit against the city commission charges $4,675 was illegally paid to its representatives and in the proceedings against the county it is charged $3,161 was unlawfully paid Ernest Matthews, former county attorney.

The suits were filed in chancery court following a ruling by Jelks Cabiness, county attorney, that the county was within its rights in paying its lobbyists.

OFFICIAL UNDER BOND IN SCHOOL BOARD ROW

CRAWFORDVILLE, Fla., Sept. 11.—(AP)—S. D. Lawhon, of Sopchoppy, chairman of the Wakulla county commission, today was under bond awaiting trial on charges of attacking two members of the county school board.

Officers said Lawhon attacked and severely beat Emory Rudd and Newt Culbreath late yesterday during a meeting of the school board at Otter Creek. They said the altercation followed the school board's decision of a plan to dismiss two teachers, one of them Lawhon's daughter.

Lawhon will be tried here in county court September 21.

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE No. 90

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

As favorable winds carried Tarzan's craft up the sunlit sea, the O-220, following the same route cruised in wide circles upon what its captain now considered his hopeless quest for the missing members of the dirigible's party. Also, he was beginning to wonder if they could find the polar opening and return again to the outer world. Serious problems concerning fuel and oil confronted them if they did not soon start back for civilization.

If they did not find Tarzan and Jason quickly, it looked as though the men of the great dirigible must resign themselves to remaining. Below them but never within sight, the apeman and his party were sailing now—they knew not where—lost upon the bosom of Pellucidar's uncharted sea. Lajo, head Korsar, stood in the boat's bow, sniffing the air like a hunting dog. A land breeze had sprung up. "We are in for a stiff blow," he said to Tarzan.

Soon the wind and sea mounted to terrifying proportions and the craft fairly flew before the storm. There was no rain or lightning, just stupendous seas and hurricane wind that threatened to engulf Tarzan and his companions each moment. The Waziri were frankly frightened, for the sea was not their element. The mountain girl and Thoar seemed awed but if they felt fear, they did not show it. Even Tarzan and Jason were convinced the boat could not weather the elements.

By some miracle of fate the boat lived through the storm. But when the wind diminished and the seas went down, there were only tumbling waters to be seen. Nowhere was there a sight of land. "How now, Lajo, shall we set our course for Korsar?" asked Tarzan. "It will be difficult," he answered, "but I know from which direction the wind usually blows upon the Korsar Az. We cannot be far from my city." It was at this moment that a cry came from The Red Flower of Zoram, and all eyes turned in the direction she indicated.

TEACHERS' TERMS REJECTED BY KEY

Mayor Declines To Accept Conditions Imposed by School Committee.

Atlanta's financial quandary Friday rapidly approached a crisis with the schools again thrust into the foreground.

Mayor James L. Key informed a special committee from the Atlanta board of education that he would refuse to accept conditions laid down by Atlanta public school teachers on which they would agree to donate December salaries, which he has insisted every officer and salaried employe of the government must do.

There is enough money to operate schools only until about next Friday, and, under a resolution passed by the Atlanta board of education, the educational system will be shut tightly as soon as present funds are expended unless others are provided.

Key has made any additional help for schools contingent on full co-operation in the salary donation plan, and since he has rejected the proposal of teachers, there are only two avenues open—school employes must accept Key's conditions or Key will take steps to force them to—thus keeping the schools running. Key has said schools shall not close, and he is known to be very friendly to education, but he will insist on full co-operation of teachers.

$855,000 Needed.

It will take another $855,000 to operate schools for the remainder of the year, including December salaries, according to departmental estimates. Key plans to eliminate about $250,000 of this amount through December salaries and to attempt to get the other funds from other sources.

Members of the finance committee of council will begin drawing the October finance sheet within the next two weeks, it is expected, but schools must have more money before that time, or the threat to close schools may be made effective.

Administration leaders and school administration chiefs Friday afternoon marked time and parried awaiting developments. None of them knew exactly what attitude to take except Key, who announced he will insist on his salary contribution from all employes, and then will attempt to find necessary funds to continue all departments for the remainder of the year.

Key turned down the teachers' proposal at a meeting at his office attended by W. W. Gaines, president of the board of education; Thomas Clift, school business manager; B. Graham West, city comptroller, and Councilman Frank Beck, vice chairman of the finance committee.

Four Killed, 12 Hurt In Kodak Plant Blast

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 11.—(AP)—A terrific explosion today in the center of the Eastman Kodak Company plant caused the death of four workmen and critically injured 12 others, six perhaps fatally. Panic among 800 other workers was prevented by cool-headed leadership.

The injured were reported in critical condition from acid burns and falling stonework.

The explosion was believed to have occurred in a machine shed for mixing highly explosive coating.

The shock of the blast was felt for a wide radius and a larger death list was believed to have been averted by the absence of fire among the inflammable materials.

WILLIAM D. GRANT II LAID TO FINAL REST

Final rites for William Daniel Grant II, 34, son of John W. Grant, who died suddenly Wednesday at a private hospital, were conducted Friday morning at the residence of his parents on West Pace's Ferry road. Dr. J. Sprole Lyons officiated. Interment was in the family vaults in Oakland cemetery.

Pallbearers were Alex MacDougald, John Hardisty, Jesse Draper, Major Clark Howell Jr., S. C. Satterthwait, Charles D. Orme, Dr. William Kiser, Robert F. Maddox Jr., Henry B. Tompkins, Henry Newman, Eugene Black Jr. and Dan MacDougald.

Since the World War, during which he held the commission as ensign as an instructor in bombing at the Pensacola station, he had been in real estate transactions with his father here. He left Yale University to enlist. He was a member of the Capital City Club.

Surviving are a son, William Daniel Grant III; his parents, a brother, John Grant Jr., and two sisters, Mrs. Richard H. Wilmer, of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Frank C. Owens, of Atlanta.

Fulton-Campbell Officials Gather at Old-Time Fish Fry, Pledge Co-operation in Consummation of County Merger

No, this is not a picture of Rudy Vallee and his boys singing "The Stein Song." It shows just a bunch of "home folks," officials and citizens of Fulton and Campbell counties, offering a toast to the approaching merger of the two counties. The gentlemen with the cups are, from left to right, sitting: J. G. Fretwell, Fulton; Judge J. Wilson Parker, Campbell; J. W. Steed, Campbell; Frank Smith, Fulton tax investigator; Reese Perry, Fulton; L. M. Hobgood, Campbell commissioner; C. P. Campbell, Campbell deputy sheriff; and standing: Frank H. Redwine, chairman of the Campbell commission and host; Representative Luther Still, of Fulton; Representative Homer Gullatt, of Campbell; C. H. Tyree, of Fulton; C. E. Slaten, of Fulton; J. E. Creel, Campbell sheriff; Charles Wooddall, Fulton; Robert F. Pennington, Fulton, and C. E. Smith, Campbell. Photo by Sandy Sanders, staff photographer.

On a breeze-swept bluff 100 feet above the waters of the Chattahoochee, official families of Fulton and Campbell counties met Friday night as the guests of Frank H. Redwine, chairman of the Campbell county commission, to celebrate the merger, January 1, 1932, of the two counties.

An old-fashioned fish fry, with tubs of fresh, crisply-cooked fish and huge mounds of hoe cakes, washed down with black coffee from country-style tin cups, was followed by a few brief remarks by officials of both counties.

Lawrence Camp, of Fairburn, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, welcomed the Fulton visitors to Campbell county and told of the benefits to both counties from the merger. Commissioner Redwine also made a speech of welcome. Commissioners George Longino Jr. and Paul S. Ethridge, of Fulton, extended a warm welcome to Campbell county.

Representative Luther Still, of Fulton, and Representative Homer Gullatt, of Campbell, who fought side by side in the recent session of the general assembly for Fulton's interests, made short talks. Mr. Still, who represents labor, expressed the hope that the Fulton county commission would revise its recent cuts in salaries because, he said, he is opposed to cutting those who draw low salaries.

Commissioner W. L. Gilbert, of Fulton, and Commissioners H. H. Hudgins, Paul Barrett, D. B. Gullatt and L. M. Hobgood, of Campbell, also attended.

A trail through the woods to the river bluff was cut especially for the fish fry. After the "feed" and talks, the "barbershop" harmony boys woke up the wild life of the neighborhood with a few old-time songs.

EVA FAY LINCOLN WAGENHALS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The theater lost two of its glamorous figures today with the death of Lincoln A. Wagenhals, noted Broadway producer, and Eva Fay, probably the best known of vaudeville mind readers.

Both had been in retirement for several years but had planned returning to the theater.

Wagenhals died at the age of 52 at his home, Montrose-on-Hudson. He suffered an attack of pneumonia several days ago and failed to rally.

figured in the hearings with Batt and Bauer maintaining that the steel would greatly reduce the leakage and therefore increase the company's gross returns.

Admits "Oversight."

Pressed by Reed to state why he had not included the value of land upon which holders are erected, one piece of which the company expert said was on the tax books at between $20,000 and $30,000, Batt said that this was an oversight on his part in preparing the valuation.

At the morning session of the commission, Batt was subjected to a crossfire concerning his past experience for the purpose of impeaching his qualification as an expert witness.

Into the record Reed read a letter said to have been from J. D. Roberts, chief engineer of the Central Illinois public service commission, which stated that Batt was requested to voluntarily resign as gas engineer because of unsatisfactory service.

"His practical operating experience did not justify our retaining him in our employ and his construction ability as an engineer did not substantiate his claims and he was unable to execute the work assigned to him," the Roberts letter said.

Batt admitted having worked for Roberts but denied that he had been asked to resign. When shown the letter, purporting to be an original, he declared that the signature was not that of his former employer.

Dr. Bauer defended vigorously the previous record of Batt, declaring him to be a recognized gas engineer who had prepared various appraisals for the Illinois commission.

MURDER THEORY IS STRENGTHENED IN PIRACY PROBE

thing against her," he said, "when they might better be spending their time looking for my son, Ben. Mr. and Mrs. Collings were completely devoted to each other and to their daughter."

Jurisdiction in Question.

Nassau county officials took the lead in the investigation, but Suffolk county officials looked on, for the crime may have been committed in the waters under their jurisdiction.

Mrs. Collings' version of the tragedy, to the effect that two men boarded the yacht, tied and threw her husband overboard because he refused to taxi them to Norwalk, and attacked her as they bore her in a canoe to a motorboat in Oyster bay, where she was left marooned, was changed only slightly in detail at the end of the day.

She said for the first time that as she was taken from the Penguin she saw her husband floating on the water, that he was groaning but not struggling.

Dragging of the waters near where Collings is supposed to have gone overboard was carried on all day without result.

Toward evening detectives were dispatched to Huntington to check a report that a small boat containing some men's clothing had been found drifting in the sound near there. It was believed the boat might have been the canoe in which Mrs. Collings said she was borne away from the Penguin.

Despite the acceptance of Mrs. Collings story, officials subjected her to almost ceaseless questioning.

Night in Garden City.

She was sent last night to the Garden City hotel under an assumed name by Inspector Harold King, of Nassau county, and kept under guard.

At 8:30 a. m. today, she was brought to Mineola, where the sister of her husband, Miss Helen P. Collings, joined her. Miss Collings bears a striking resemblance to her brother's wife.

With District Attorney Edwards and Assistant District Attorney Fred J. Munder, of Suffolk county, the party hurried to Oyster bay, where Inspector King directed the re-enactment of Mrs. Collings' story aboard the yacht.

The young wife appeared often on the verge of collapse or hysteria. She looked worried and was very pale.

As she explained the details of the events of Wednesday night, a huge crown pressed against police lines on the dock nearby. She was oblivious to the clamor.

Finally she finished her rehearsal of the scene and sat on a rear deck seat with her sister-in-law. Inspector King, making a minute search of the boat's cabin, brought her each object for identification.

The inspector found a bowie knife and a pistol. A dozen detective story magazines were sent to police headquarters for examination.

KEY, SUTTON ATTACKED AT 1931 CLUB MEETING

Mayor James L. Key and Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta public schools, will face court injunctions to prevent them from drawing their salaries if they absent themselves from their duties again, it was announced Friday night by Dr. Horace Grant, president of the 1931 Club.

The session was held at the Kimball house and was featured by a charge by the Rev. H. J. Penn, school commissioner from the fifth ward, that no relief "can be expected from the school system until there has been a thorough house-cleaning."

Other officers of the club as announced Friday night include Clarence Reagan, first vice president; F. L. Breen, second vice president, and Willis Biggers, secretary-treasurer. Breen, Jo Johnson and Cecil V. Whiddon are the executive committee, with Walter S. McNeal Jr., John Pate, Thomas Skipper and Biggers as members of an investigating committee.

Motions were passed demanding that copies of hearings of the council school committee's probe of school affairs be furnished the club and that the electrical and maintenance department of the school system be placed under the superintendent of electrical affairs and chief of construction, respectively, of the city government, and the purchasing of school supplies under the city purchasing agent.

McNeal renewed his demand that the board resign as a whole, and other speakers scored the board, Sutton, Key and other city officials.
